

Khrushchev Speaks

War to Us Misery, Tears, Grief

(Second of a Series)

One does not need to delve deeply into history to appreciate how important it is for mankind to insure peaceful co-existence. And here it may be said parenthetically that the Europeans might have benefited a great deal in their day if, instead of organizing senseless crusades that invariably ended in failure, they had established peaceful relations with the differently minded peoples of the Moslem East.

But let us turn to facts concerning the relatively recent past when the watershed between states no longer consisted of different religious creeds and customs, but of much deeper differences of principle relating to the choice of social systems. This new situation arose on the threshold of the Nineteen Twenties when, to the booming of the guns of the Russian cruiser Aurora, which had joined the rebellious workers and peasants, a new and unprecedented social system, a state of workers and peasants, came into the world.

Strangle the Infant

Its appearance was met with the disgruntled outcries of those who naively believed the capitalist system to be eternal and immutable. Some people even made an attempt to strangle the unwanted infant in the cradle.

Everybody knows how this ended: our people voted with their arms for Soviet power, and it came to stay. And even then, in 1920, V. I. Lenin, replying to the question of an American correspondent as to what basis there could be for peace between Soviet Russia and America, said:

"Let the American imperial-ists not touch us. We won't touch them."

From its very inception the Soviet state proclaimed peaceful co-existence as the basic principle of its foreign policy. It was no accident that the very first state act of the Soviet power was the decree on peace, the decree on the cessation of bloody war.

What, then, is the policy of peaceful co-existence?

In its simplest expression it signifies the repudiation of war as a means of solving controversial issues.

However, this does not cover the entire concept of peaceful co-existence.

All States Obligated

Apart from the commitment to non-aggression, it also presupposes an obligation on the part of all states to desist from violating each other's territorial integrity and sovereignty in any form and under any pretext whatsoever.

The principle of peaceful co-existence signifies a renunciation of interference in the internal affairs of other countries with the object of altering their system of government or mode of life or for any other motives.

The doctrine of peaceful co-existence also presupposes that political and economic relations between countries are to be based upon complete equality of the parties concerned and on mutual benefit.

It is often said in the West that peaceful co-existence is nothing else than a tactical method of the Socialist states. There is not a grain of truth in such allegations.

Our desire for peace and peaceful co-existence is not conditioned by any time-serving or tactical considerations.

It springs from the very nature of Socialist society in which there are no classes or social groups interested in profiting by war or seizing and enslaving other peoples' territories.

Unlimited Market

The Soviet Union and the other Socialist countries, thanks to their Socialist system, have an unlimited home market, and for this reason they have no need to pursue an expansionist policy of conquest and an effort to subordinate other countries to their influence.

It is the people who determine the destinies of the Socialist states. The Socialist states are ruled by the working people themselves, the workers and peasants, the people who themselves create all the material and spiritual values of society.

And people of labor cannot want war. For to them war spells grief and tears, death, devastation and misery. Ordinary people have no need for war.

Contrary to what certain propagandists hostile to us say, the co-existence of states with different social systems does not mean that they will only fence themselves off from each other by a high wall and undertake the mutual obligations not to throw stones over the wall or pour dirt upon each other.

Threat of War

Not Peaceful co-existence does not mean merely living side by side in the absence of war but with the constantly remaining threat of its breaking out in the future. Peaceful co-existence can and should develop into peaceful competition for the purpose of satisfying man's needs in the best possible way.

We say to the leaders of the capitalist states: Let us try out in practice whose system is better, let us compete without war.

This is much better than competing in who will produce more arms and who will smash whom. We stand and always will stand for such competition as will help to raise the well-being of the people to a higher level.

The principle of peaceful competition does not at all demand that one or another state abandon the system and ideology adopted by it.

It goes without saying that the acceptance of this principle cannot lead to the immediate end of disputes and contradictions that are inevitable between countries adhering to different social systems. But the main thing is insured: the states that decide to adopt the path of peaceful co-existence repudiate the use of force in any form.

In our age of the H-bomb and atomic techniques this is the main thing of interest to every man.

Dog Finds Bank Loot

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCMP dog has recovered an estimated $9,200 believed stolen from a suburban Burnaby Bank of Nova Scotia branch yesterday by three masked men. The police dog led searchers to the money. Three suspects were being held but no charges have been laid.

Puffy's Tub Is Home Sweet Home

Enjoying a dip in the family bathtub before lunch, Puffy the seal, found romping in the bathtub of a vacated apartment last week, prepares to make short work of the herring offered by 16-year-old Gudrun Bauersachs. The girl's father, zoo owner Rudy Bauersachs, who adopted the orphan seal, says Puffy prefers the bathtub to a pond on the zoo property. —(Colonist photo.)

Strike End Near?

Stock Camps For Loggers

Food was reported being sent into northern logging camps yesterday by the coastal forest industry in anticipation that the 66-day-old woodworkers strike will be over next week.

Industry sources said skeleton crews could begin work by Monday if the strike is settled this weekend. Full operations would resume about Wednesday.

TWO-YEAR PACT

It appeared certain that the 27,000 striking members of the International Woodworkers of America would approve a proposal that they settle for a 20-cent wage increase over two years, with an additional 10 cents for tradesmen. Minimum pay now is $1.72 an hour.

There was still no official word whether the operators, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, would accept the proposal by government-appointed mediator Dr. John Deutsch. A statement is expected today.

Voting by Victoria's 1,500-strong IWA local and other coast locals winds up at noon today. Official tallies on the union vote are expected to be announced shortly afterwards.

Members of the big Vancouver and New Westminster union locals, who had been urged by their leaders to reject the settlement, instead voted in favor. The vote was 60.4 per cent in favor in Vancouver and 54 per cent in New Westminster.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union called on India and China to settle their "misunderstandings" amicably.

The Chinese note demanded India get out of "all areas that have been invaded," and warned that "any armed provocation will certainly meet a firm rebuff from Chinese frontier guards."

In reply, India said its troops will "prevent illegal intrusion by foreign forces into their territory," but indicated willingness to accept the Communist bid for "friendly negotiations" on the issue.

The tie-up, longest in the coast lumber industry since the Second World War, is costing some $1,000,000 a day in lost production and wages.

In Nanaimo, members of sub-local 1-80 voted yesterday on the Deutsch report proposals. Results will be made known this morning.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—

Prime Minister Nehru told parliament Thursday that it would be foolish to go to war with Communist China "over this mountain or that, however beautiful they may be"—but he declared India's border integrity must be respected.

Nehru spoke on the heels of a new exchange of strongly worded notes between Peiping and New Delhi. Each side accused the other of aggression and demanded withdrawal of the other's forces.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon warned Peiping India's frontiers were sacred and stressed determination to "defend ourselves" if the Reds launched an aggression.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

President Eisenhower last night challenged Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to bring with him to Washington "constructive ideas and suggestions" that could provide the basis for easing world tensions.

He again urged Americans to receive Khrushchev with "courtesy and dignity" and expressed "profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming" from his talks with the Soviet official.

He said no one should be "so bold as to predict such an outcome."

BETTER ATMOSPHERE

But he said that if "an improved atmosphere of mutual understanding and serious purpose" could be created, "it would be possible to attack, with renewed hope, the problems that divide us."

Warning that "the choice before world leaders is momentous," Eisenhower said that if Khrushchev "has constructive ideas and suggestions that could provide the basis for responsible negotiation... we would welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

He said Khrushchev's 13-day visit, which begins Tuesday, would be "a thousandfold worthwhile" if it gave him "some real appreciation" of the spirit and conscience of America.

AMERICA PRAYS

"I know that all America prays to the Almighty that this might come to pass," he said.

He said he asked Khrushchev to this country so that he might see "what America and Americans are like... and see and feel a great thriving nation living in real freedom."

He said he also wanted to give the Soviet leader "face to face, the basic convictions of our people on the major issues of the day, including West Berlin, and to hear from him directly his own views on those issues."

Noting that an east-west summit meeting might be an outgrowth of his talks with Khrushchev, Eisenhower again declared that before he will agree to such a conference Russia must give positive assurances that "our status and rights in Berlin" will be respected.

CLEAR INDICATION

He said there also "must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

In his 15-minute address, the president also reported at length on the results of his recent diplomatic mission to Europe. He said his "most memorable impression" was "that the people of Europe deeply like the people of America."

Crowds Mourn Le Chef

THREE RIVERS, Que. (UPI)—The late Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec, was buried yesterday in a small family plot overlooking the city which called him "Our Maurice."

Tens of thousands packed this St. Maurice region city for the state funeral of "Le Chef."

SOLEMN REQUIEM

Duplessis' bronze coffin was lowered into a grave beside that of his father in St. Louis cemetery in the afternoon after a solemn requiem mass was said in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception by Msgr. Georges Leon Pelletier, Bishop of Three Rivers.

Provincial police estimated that almost 70,000 mourners lined the sidewalks of the city, on the western bank of the St. Lawrence River, midway between Quebec City and Montreal.

Early-to-Rise, Late-to-Bed Nikita's Fate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will follow an early-to-rise, late-to-bed schedule during his U.S. visit, it was disclosed yesterday.

The White House made public the anxiously-awaited details of Khrushchev's visit. Included was a white tie dinner at the White House, a farmhouse luncheon and a tour of a movie lot.

More conventional highlights of the first nine days of his 13-day tour, which begins next Tuesday, were visits to an IBM plant, an agricultural research station and leaders, finance chiefs and political and civic figures.

TRIP TO CONGRESS

Notably missing was any mention of a trip to Congress—still in the throes of adjournment.

Also noted was the fact that the schedule specified white tie for the White House dinner honoring Khrushchev. Khrushchev's dinner for the president at the Soviet embassy the following night will feature "optional" dress.

A Soviet embassy spokesman said he did not know whether Khrushchev would wear white tie and tails to the White House. While ambassador Mikhail Menshikov has done so, one report was that Khrushchev has never donned such fancy garb.

PRIVATE CITIZENS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former New York Gov. Averell Harriman and corn farmer Roswell Garst of Coon Rapids, Iowa, were the only private citizens scheduled to entertain the Russian leader in their own homes.

The agenda for only the first nine days started with Khrushchev's arrival at Andrews air force base here at 11.30 a.m. EDT, and ended with his arrival at Pittsburgh at 11 p.m. EDT, Wednesday, Sept. 23.

The rest of the schedule, to include private Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at the president's heavily-guarded Camp David retreat in Maryland's nearby Catocin mountains, will be made public later.

MOTORCADE

After being greeted by President Eisenhower, Khrushchev and his wife and the president will lead a motorcade from the airport to the president's guest house, where the Khrushchevs will stay.

The next item is a private Eisenhower-Khrushchev luncheon at the president's guest house. That will be followed by a 3.30 p.m. Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference at the White House and the 8 p.m. White House dinner.

Paul Sauve Named Quebec's Premier

QUEBEC (CP)—Paul Sauve, 52-year-old youth and welfare minister under the late Premier Duplessis, on Thursday night became premier of Quebec.

Lieutenant-Governor One-sime Gagnon called Mr. Sauve and said: "I have the honor to ask you if you will form a new government."

LIST TODAY

Mr. Sauve replied: "I beg the honor to consider this overnight and I will have a list of ministers ready by 9.45 or 10 a.m. tomorrow."

Mr. Sauve takes over the post left vacant last Monday by Maurice Duplessis, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Swearing-in likely will be today but it is only a formality. Mr. Sauve's selection followed a series of meetings on the part of old cabinet members and party members at the legislature buildings here.

CHOICE MADE

First the members of the former cabinet grouped to make their choice, drawing up a petition asking the lieutenant-governor to call on Mr. Sauve.

Then, the former ministers took it to members of the Union Nationale party in caucus. They asked that the party members add their support to the petition in the interest of party harmony.

LOUD APPLAUSE

Minutes after the petition went into the locked chamber, loud applause was heard. Lieutenant-Governor Gagnon made his brief call and then the ceremonies were over.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ZWEIBRUCKEN, Germany—Today I flew a jet plane and brought it down to an inglorious landing in a field, a long way from where I was meant to be.

I did it without leaving the ground—in one of the costly flight-simulator machines that train Canada's pilots.

The machine is an exact replica of a Sabre jet's cockpit. It contains all the dials and all the machinery. From a panel nearby, an operator can pull a switch to cut out the engine, damage the flight controls, knock instruments out of kilter, or artificially manufacture any of the many kinds of trouble that a jet pilot must be able to meet.

The flight simulator can prepare a pilot for anything except the actual feeling of flight, the pull of several times the weight of the atmosphere on the flesh and blood.

FO Norman Guizzo of Nanaimo had mercy when I sat in the pilot's seat trying to cope with the complex array of gadgets. He didn't make anything go wrong for me. I had a hard enough time getting the machine (in theory) off the ground, and back down again, without any other grief being added.

Later I met some of the squadron pilots: Flying Officers R. T. Brook, Thomas J. Harrison, E. H. Woodward (Vancouver) and Paul Kinghorn.

They were in their squadron's "Zulu hangar," the place where on-duty crews and their aircraft stand by 24 hours a day, the starters plugged in to the planes, pilots' helmets slung over the rims of the cockpits.

Seconds after their loudspeaker giving warning of a "hot scramble" (suspected hostile aircraft crossing into West Germany's 50-mile buffer zone) or a "live scramble"—(aircraft in distress, needs to be escorted) they are leaping into their aircraft faster than firemen slide down the brass pole.

Meanwhile, the ground crews are starting the planes. Pilots jump in, close the canopy, and whistle down the runway. There is no delay. Jet engines do not require to be warmed up.

In daytime the Sabre jet squadrons are on "Zulu alert;" at night, the CF-100 all-weather fighters with their two-man crews, pilot and radar-observer-navigator.

The four "Zulu" pilots I met were Sabre boys. Just as I was shaking hands with them, the loudspeaker made a "bloop" noise as if clearing its throat for a message. At the sound, all four men moved toward the door. But it turned out to be a station message of no special importance.

They wore their G-suits—full-length garments which automatically fill with air and press inward to prevent the blood from flying out to the extremities and causing greyouts or blackouts—partial or complete loss of consciousness.

"Hold your nose," warned FO Brook. "The G-suits soak up a lot of perspiration and they get pretty high. They'll almost climb in and out of an aircraft by themselves."

"I can't smell anything," I said, and in fact I couldn't. All four pilots were cheerful, polite and full of jokes. But I got the feeling that they were continuously listening with one ear for something else while talking to me—that they were braced for an instant getaway, like runners at the starting line.

I also sensed that these men were able to do several things at once—they picked up questions from two separate conversations and answered them coherently.

In fact, they are required to have ability of this kind. One of their numerous entry tests requires them to carry out a number of simultaneous actions, in the style of rubbing the stomach while patting the head.

From here, a jet plane can reach the Iron Curtain in about the time it takes a man on the ground to smoke a king-sized cigarette. But a 60-mile buffer zone, inside which Allied pilots do not generally go, cushions the sensitive border.

I asked the pilots about current air force slang. "Waxing," said one of them. "That's a word to mean 'getting the better of.' But there's more to it beside that, and it isn't printable. 'Bouncing—that's to attack. And sometimes you might say 'Out-hassled them.'"

I found Sqdn-Ldr. Hal Knight, commanding officer of No. 427 Sabre squadron, clad in a flying suit, leaning back in his chair and scanning an aviation magazine.

"What do you think of the new Starfighter that you're getting?" I asked.

"Have you seen the press release on it?" asked Knight, a 1939-45 Hurricane and Spitfire pilot. "World's altitude record, 91,243 feet. World's speed record, 1,404.09. It's been over 1,500 in level flight."

"It's one of those things where you end up with your eyebrows joining your ears."

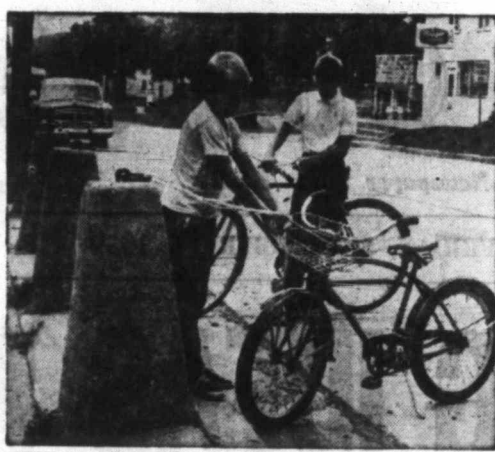

"It's been reassuring to the aircrew to know that there is such a future. We're proud to form a part of the NATO forces, and we feel that NATO is a pretty important thing."

Among other officers and airmen I met FL Clare Angus, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Angus, Victoria, a navigator in CF-100s; and Cpl. Howard Staley, son of Rev. E. J. Staley, long-time missionary to Indians and superintendent of an Indian residential school at Edmonton, now a United Church minister in Victoria. Howard is an electrician.

I met Ann Peden, sister of Doug Peden, former Colonist sportswriter who now works for another paper. Ann is a nursing sister at the Zweibrücken station hospital. This hospital not only looks after the sick, injured and expectant on its own station, but cares for patients brought in from all the other stations—service personnel and their wives and children—a total population of 18,000.

"I hate all reporters except my brother," Ann said. It turned out that she had been misquoted (though not in Victoria papers). So I promised not to quote her, except for the remark above.

That evening the mess was saying farewell to two doctors who were leaving—one for England, other for Halifax. I watched them being presented with farewell silver tankards, and drank a glass of good German beer to their health. Cost, five cents. No wonder the men and women of Canada's air force are happy in Europe.

No Horses, No Meters

The horse may be gone from Lebanon, Wis., but 50-year-old hitching posts still line the business district. John Eske, 7, and his 11-year-old brother Robert tie their steeds.

'Friends' Of Hoffa Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Two former Teamster Union officials were convicted Thursday of conspiracy to obstruct justice by hiding records sought by a special racket grand jury.

One, described by the government as a close associate of Teamster President James Hoffa, was Joseph Curcio, 41, former president of a United Automobile Workers union local.

Also convicted was George Baker, 40, a former teamster organizer.

Stevens Funeral Saturday

Funeral services for Ernest Stevens, 78, well-known building contractor and a resident of Victoria since 1911, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in McCall's Funeral home.

Mr. Stevens, who was born in Kent, England in 1881, died Wednesday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was partner with his brother, the late George Stevens, in a construction firm that erected a number of buildings in the city, including First United Church.

He was a pioneer member of Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1, AF & AM, and a member of First Baptist Church. He is survived by nieces and nephews in England.

'It's the Will of the Lord'

Hermit Out of Wilds

VANCOUVER (CP) — The "Hermit of Hollyburn Ridge," a self-styled religious mystic, was removed from his isolated mountain cabin Thursday and taken to a nursing home.

Bill McFarlane, 81, a bed-ridden cripple who at one stage had six "spiritual wives," finally accepted his eviction as the will of the Lord.

Earlier he warned that the sheriff, the bailiff and workmen who were to wreck his cabin would be "struck dead" by God if they carried out a court order to remove him to clear the way for a new development.

"I'll tell you why I'm not objecting now—this is the beginning of the end," McFarlane said.

At various times during his 20-year stay on the mountain, the old man was cared for by women he called "spiritual wives" or disciples.

Free Buses Full

OTTAWA (CP) — Buses were crowded Thursday as Ottawa residents took advantage of free bus rides offered by a department store to promote its 59th birthday sale. Transportation Commission officials estimated the system carried more than twice the 11,000 passengers usually handled by 85 buses during the 9:30 a.m.-12 noon Thursday period. The cost of the free rides was not disclosed.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEST, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Get FASTEST at drug counters everywhere.

Union War 'Terror Campaign'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers said Thursday that a secret campaign of terror is being waged against the union.

Opponents 'Reds' SIU Says

OTTAWA (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union charged Thursday that Communists control the new Vancouver waterfront local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

As the two unions went to the mat before the Canada Labor Relations Board in their fight for West Coast shipping domination, board chairman C. Rhodes Smith doubted whether the charges would affect the outcome.

In one of 13 cases before the board in which the brotherhood is trying to chase the Seafarers off the west coast, two SIU members put Communists tags on two local officers of the anti-Communist brotherhood's new West Coast marine local.

Brotherhood officials asked for police protection, saying men have waited outside members' houses in cars "frightening the life out of their wives."

The brotherhood is in the midst of a jurisdictional war with the Seafarers' International Union, recently expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress. An SIU official said members of his union have also been threatened.

Brotherhood officials said members have been threatened with death, their wives intimidated, windows smashed and tires slashed.

One member was rung up at 3 a.m. and told: "We will kill you if it takes a year."

Another member moved after his wife suffered a nervous collapse. Officials said there is a danger that "full-scale violence" may break out.

Rod Heinekey, an SIU representative, said the brotherhood statements are a "lot of baloney."

"It's an old Commie tactic to do something like that yourself and then blame someone else for it. We know nothing about such things except that our members have also been threatened."

Curse Buffets Gold-Seekers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three amateur prospectors Thursday talked of curses after they spent 10 days searching for the legendary Lost Creek gold mine near Pitt Lake, 35 miles east of Vancouver.

Dan Gray, Alf Newman and

Bob Blakey, all farmers from Aldergrove, 20 miles east of here, were searching for a mine said to have been found by an Indian named Slumach in 1891.

Slumach is supposed to have brought out gold but was hanged for murder without divulging the location of the mine.

The three men watched in awe during their trip as dense fog rolled in, huge mountain slides thundered down and lightning bolts split the air. It rained for 10 days.

"There must be something in the curse because we didn't find any gold," Blakey said. "We weren't exactly frightened, but it certainly made us think."

Fluctuating Value

SALE of federal treasury bills yesterday at a higher yield than in the previous week led a return to the Bank of Canada rate of 6.05 per cent. The government sold $100,000,000 short term bills at an average yield of 5.80, compared with 5.64 last week. For the last three months the official discount rate has been fluctuating in Canada as the government has rung the changes on the volume of treasury bills sold in the weekly offerings. Ninety-one day bills have been bringing their purchasers high yields throughout the period, rising to several peaks from which there have been momentary recessions.

In the end the Dominion will have to declare what its next move will be in obtaining the cash it needs to meet maturing loans and to carry on the business of the country. Mr. Fleming is encountering a difficult period in which heavy calls on governmental debt and other outlays and clamorous demands by all classes of borrowers for loans have combined to create a greater demand for money than there seems to have been available supply. Interest instalments on the federal conversion loans of two years ago, at the rate of $120,000,000 every six months, have been imposed on existing heavy maturities in a time spacing which has given the treasury little leeway between successive refundings.

No doubt Mr. Fleming will solve the government's difficulties, since to maintain its program the administration must, but meanwhile this alternate escalating and falling of the value of money in Canada is creating something close to confusion in business circles. Major commercial concerns are not likely to take decisive forward action if they have to compete with the government in a "tight" money market. By running up and down the volume of weekly treasury bills offered the treasury has been one cause of ever-changing fluctuations in interest rates. One can understand that national needs come first, but why should there be dragging delay in striking some compromise which will satisfy the Dominion's requirements and allow the credit arrangements of the country to go forward?

Within the next few weeks Mr. Fleming will have to meet national debt maturities beyond the return of any weekly treasury bill sale, and this before the forthcoming savings bond issue has put fresh assets in the Dominion's hands. So it is Mr. Fleming's move, and time is running out.

Confusing Street Names

ANY attempt to change long-established street names is always bound to encounter stubborn resistance, even though existing names may be inappropriate or misleading. The latest move here in that direction is the proposal to drop the names "Cadboro Bay Road" and "Pandora Avenue" from Greater Victoria's list of streets; and as Mayor Scurrah has slyly remarked, that is certain to cause some controversy.

Despite the objections that will inevitably be raised, there is a lot to be said for the idea. It is always confusing when a street which follows a continuous line suddenly changes its name without changing its direction. At Oak Bay junction Pandora Avenue for no apparent reason becomes Oak Bay Avenue on the opposite side of the intersection. Fort Street preserves its name, for some distance beyond the same intersection, but at a bend near the Old Men's Home becomes Cadboro Bay Road, though to the traveller it is an uninterrupted continuation of Fort Street.

Historical associations, cherished by some, would be little impaired if the suggested change were made. Those of Fort Street, of prime importance as the route from the old fort to the Hudson's Bay Farm of pioneer times, would be enhanced; those of Cadboro Bay Road would be dropped from the name of the thoroughfare but preserved in the name of the bay itself. "Pandora" alone would be a loss from the point of view of history; but the significance of the name is appreciated by only a very few and is in fact more often misunderstood. In any case it might be possible to retain "Pandora" for the right-hand fork of the peculiar division just above Blanshard Street.

The proposed change is connected with a request from the post office department for revision of street names in Greater Victoria to eliminate confusion of this and other varieties. On the whole it appears both sensible and practicable, and should commend itself to the municipalities concerned. This matter may appear trivial to longtime residents who know their way around but, apart from the interest taken by the post office, it can be both perplexing and annoying to newcomers.

Link for West Coast

PROMISED in one form or another since the turn of the last century, highway connection with the west coast of Vancouver Island north of Alberni Canal became a reality this week. Settlers on Barkley Sound who looked forward to the event for months had the satisfaction of attending the formal opening of the new road which eventually will give them 24-hour connection with the highway system of Canada.

At present, and while it remains a special purpose, logging outlet, the Tofino road will be open to the public only at weekends and after industrial operations during the balance of the time. Eventually, however, this scenic route to one of the hitherto most inaccessible portions of the island will become a public thoroughfare.

Some of the scenery along the way is exceptional even on Vancouver Island. Kennedy Lake and Kennedy River form the drainage basin in which grow some of the primeval forest stands of the continent. Long Beach, full front on the Pacific Ocean, may become one of the showplaces of the future. The heavy rainfall in the same belt—some 300 inches annually—could limit tourist attraction to the region principally to the summer months. As a means of access to all parts of British Columbia, however, the Tofino road will be of first and last importance to the settlement it serves.

Interpreting the News

Conservatives Optimistic

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PRIME Minister Macmillan smilingly admits that things are breaking his way.

With the disarming frankness that has become something of a political trademark, "Supermac" acknowledges privately and publicly that fortune has favored his Conservative government in the last few months.

But, he says blandly, you mustn't begrudge a politician a little luck now and again.

Macmillan now is moving toward a date that will show whether his luck can last. Confirming an almost unanimous forecast, he announced Tuesday night that the general election will take place Thursday, Oct. 8.

As the 11-word announcement came from 10 Downing Street, a warm September sun shone from a flawless sky. Figuratively, the political sun shone just as brightly for the Tories.

Opinion polls showed the government forces with a clear edge over the opposition Labor party. Little more than a year ago, Labor was in front.

President Eisenhower's visit to Britain helped to cast Macmillan in the role of international peacemaker. After the pally Ike-Mac television broadcast last week, commentator Randolph Churchill referred to Eisenhower as Macmillan's campaign manager.

Labor, traditionally a party of protest, has little to complain about in a period of economic stability and jobs for all. And the Conservatives have adopted some of Labor's pet policies, blurring the differences between the parties.

Death has claimed some of Labor's post-war leaders—Sir Stafford Cripps and Ernest Bevin—and Clement Attlee and Herbert Morrison have stepped down since the jubilant days of Labor's 1945 victory. The Conservatives, of course, have also lost strength through the retirement of Sir Winston Churchill and Sir Anthony Eden.

The Conservatives are favored by an automatic bias in the electoral system. Labor voters tend to be concentrated in certain constituencies, whereas Conservative strength is more evenly spread, making it possible for Labor to attract the greater number of total votes and still lose the election.

London Letter

Fishbowl 'Privacy'

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

WITH countless millions of people I viewed the much publicized armchair conversation between the prime minister of the United Kingdom and the president of the United States. I watched some of the processions, the cheers and the traditional and often very pleasing ballet of this—believe it or not—informal visit, and with countless millions all over the world I hope that it will all add up to something. All the indications are that it will—providing national vanities are satisfied.

At the back of it all, however, I have sneaking fear that our statesmen are being bowed down by trimmings and missing the main meal. It may seem heretical for a journalist to suggest it—especially as Mr. James Hargarty, the president's press secretary expects us all to be thrilled by "hard news" about presidential beds, one or two eggs for breakfast and similar world-shattering information, but it seems an awful pity that heads of nations cannot just talk together.

Anyone who has flown the Atlantic will confirm that the moment after landing is not the best time to have to make speeches, inspect guards of honor, and listen to reciprocal plaudits, to attend formal dinners whilst, all the time, the real purpose of the visit is to make history.

No one appreciates the pomp, ceremony and pageantry of an official visit more than I do. The more bands the merrier—and even pious platitudes have their place in the graciousness of living. But should we not have sharp lines of demarcation?

The mental and physical exhaustion of facing up to a tightly drawn timetable, the constant inquisition of television and newsreel cameras, an army of six or seven hundred journalists, the security corps, the crowds, the waving and the speeches are surely quite enough without adding to it the kind of diplomatic talks designed to change the face of history? Is it really unreasonable and impossible in the modern world for statesmen to get together as normal individuals on behalf of other individuals?

I find myself wondering after these exhausting days just how the president feels. It is tough enough on the journalists covering the tour who have to file their despatches—and wait and keep on waiting just in case there is a momentous announcement. But for the man who has to talk and concentrate to a fixed schedule it must be little less than ghastly.

And are these armies of advisers really necessary? Is there not something to be said for Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Eisenhower, Mr. Khrushchev and, if you like, General de Gaulle and Dr. Adenauer losing themselves for a week on yacht or a desert island in the Pacific with no communication with the outside world? Then, just talking, thinking and eating as the spirit moved them?

After a few days of that, uninhibited by experts trained to tell them just how impossible it all was, it might be possible to produce a formula. Then, maybe, there should be an adjournment so that each man could deal with his own experts and get a plan of implementation. After that another family gathering and the settlement of incidental difficulties.

And definitely no press, no radio, no television, no press officers, no handouts.

Surely the mental concentration and personal goodwill which could be generated would be worth the effort—even granted that it would be necessary to have interpreters and domestic staff present.

After that there would be some justification for state visits on the grand scale.

Is Everybody Happy?

Lavish Goodwill--With Qualifications

By MARQUIS CHILDS

PARIS—Taken at face value President Eisenhower's bold adventure in personal diplomacy has been a thumping success.

Striding onto the world stage, with both hands held high, he has called out, after the fashion of Ted Lewis, "Is everybody happy?" And from a Europe enjoying full prosperity, a summer finer than any in 60 or 70 years and longing for peace, there has come a sustained shout of affirmation.

Judged by the president's own standards for the talks just ended and for the exchange with Premier Khrushchev—an improvement in the atmosphere—the tour so far has been at unqualified success. Wherever he has gone he has left behind a fine glow of outward harmony and friendly co-operation.

Germany is the most conspicuous example. The president left Chancellor Adenauer fairly purring with pleasure. Whether it was coincidence or not, one day after the President's visit to Bonn Adenauer sent off a letter to Khrushchev that represented a fundamental change in his attitude, since by implication at least he dismissed the reunification of Germany as not decisive in working out Russian-German relations.

What is even more extraordinary, this drew an immediate favorable response from Khrushchev, who has made the chancellor his favorite target for vituperation. The Soviet premier said it would be "a pleasure" to reply to Adenauer, since the note seemed to take at least the first step toward a new relationship between the two powers.

But whether this is real or merely seeming to be is the qualifier that must be added, not only with respect to Germany but the whole Eisenhower adventure. The essence of Adenauer's note, mild and reasonable in tone, was a restatement of his often-expressed conviction that controlled and inspected disarmament must take precedence over everything else in the search for peace. Adenauer urged that disarmament negotiations, broken off in 1957, be immediately resumed. This is the goal of the Western powers set forth at the end of the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting.

But there is no reason to believe that the West and the East are any nearer than they were before on the terms of controlled disarmament. A wide gap exists on the elementary business of the inspections necessary for agreement to end nuclear testing. And judging by the crumb of encouragement he threw to the Poles, which they promptly spurned, Adenauer is unwilling to make even the first timid move toward regularizing present borders and accepting the reality of current geography. Able men in the German foreign office, such as Herbert Von Kessel, who believe this is a primary requisite are now stepping out.

When it comes to England, the happiness and harmony appear to be unqualified, unless it is by the dour distrust of the Labor party. As one British commentator remarked, "on the famous telecast Prime Minister Macmillan appeared with his campaign manager, Dwight Eisenhower. If any doubt had existed on the outcome of the election next month—and there was very little—Macmillan, by shrewdly and cleverly identifying himself and his party with the Eisenhower visit and its significance for peace, dispelled it. After the fantastic and almost unprecedented number of hours of sunshine during the past summer, the British are in a mild state of euphoria. Everything appears for the best in the best possible of worlds.

It is here in France that the qualifiers must be most judiciously applied. The president came here wanting to be able to approve a "liberal" French solution for the war in Algeria. This is imperative so that American influence can be brought to bear to prevent the adoption in the United Nations General Assembly of a resolution condemning France—a resolution that would enormously complicate General de Gaulle's problem and perhaps make his position impossible.

The indications are that a "liberal" formula will be approved by the United States when de Gaulle unveils it. The official communiqué added nothing to public knowledge about Algeria, and American officials maintained a tight-lipped silence on what had or had not been agreed to. The de Gaulle formula may be sufficiently broad and generalized to forestall the calamity of a UN resolution.

But whether it can end the war and thereby resolve the problems that press so hard on de Gaulle and his personalized government is open to grave doubt. What the formula may do, once it has been wangled through the National Assembly, is to alienate further the great mass of the Asian and African peoples. The King of Morocco has issued a strong statement supporting the Algerian independence movement and his view—in a sense he is an ally of France—is widely held in the undeveloped three-fourths of the world.

In this three-fourths of the world it will appear that American policy is once again fixed on Europe, with Asia and Africa—despite all the talk about help for the undeveloped countries—an afterthought. The signs can be all too easily read. The Japanese are protesting the explosion of a French atomic bomb in the Sahara, another evidence to Asians that these weapons are the monopoly of the white West.

It would be pleasant to omit all the qualifiers and go along with the surging tide of goodwill that is evidence among other things of President Eisenhower's shrewd sense of timing. But the qualifications are as inescapable as the fall rains that are bound to follow this long spell of phenomenal good weather.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

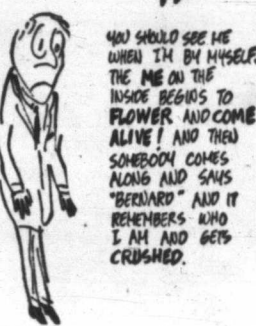

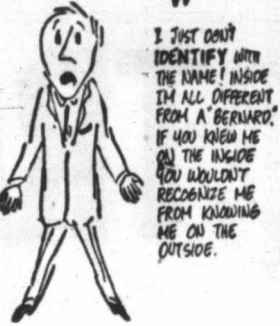

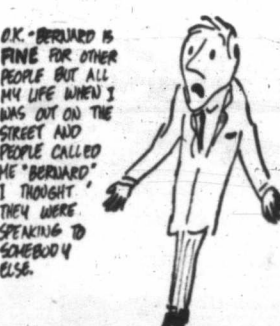

TO a naturally suspicious person like myself it sometimes appears that by-pass highways built at provincial expense around our cities are routed for the benefit of land speculators. For no sooner is a beautiful multi-million dollar four-lane by-pass opened to the public than it suddenly becomes crowded with construction vehicles of every kind, sand trucks, bulldozers, scoop shovels, cement mixers. And blooming as remarkably as dandelions in the first breath of spring, new housing developments spring up all along the by-pass. In no time it isn't a by-pass at all, but another main street of the city it was intended to circumvent.

Travellers wishing to make time across the province find themselves in the midst of not only a lively suburban traffic but all sorts of commercial as well as private vehicles using the by-pass not to by-pass the city but to avoid the congestion of the inner city by scooting around it. Thus a provincial by-pass becomes merely a convenience for the city.

When a city becomes so crowded that its traffic becomes a problem, it should be, by reason of its crowdedness, sufficiently prosperous to pay its own bills, rather than fob off millions of its civic taxes onto the provincial treasury.

Or are the provinces proud of big cities and inclined to pamper them? Maybe that's it.

Great God 'Speed'

The plea published in the Sept. 9 Colonist by the Victoria Automobile Club to crack down on "slowpoke" drivers rather amused me. Here we have the publicity bureau saying come and see our beautiful Island and the automobile club saying in effect that you may get a glimpse, if you can from a speeding car.

It may be that modern progress will in time furnish us with eyes like the lens on a snapshot camera, but judging by those waiting in optometrists' offices, that time has not yet come.

Everybody now worships at the feet of the great god "Speed" and he is demanding his sacrifices in increasing numbers. Even the gabblers who hold forth over TV and radio are his worshippers.

A hope that will probably never be realized is that a car manufacturer with common sense will some day build cars with governors that will not allow them to run over a certain speed.

R. C. BOWEN.

Error in Time

With reference to the letter in the Colonist about "Admirals in Mufti," I am sure Mr. M. T. Powell is all wrong. There were no Japanese bellhops at the Empress Hotel before the First World War, because I was working there at that time. I left Victoria in 1916 and no Japanese bellhops were there; so I guess Mr. Powell should go to see the Empress Hotel manager and he may furnish him correct dates.

'We Have Failed To Teach Youth Rules of Safety'

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac said Thursday one need only read the newspaper headlines every day to appreciate "we have failed to implant the basic rules of safety in our young people's minds."

Speaking at an Ontario transport department highway safety workshop, he said it is a bad situation when educational systems spend thousands teaching the young academic requirements and then place a weapon in their hands.

They are incapable of controlling it to the required degree of safety because they have had no adequate instruction. They then proceed to kill themselves and perhaps others through a momentary lapse brought on by the surge and thoughtlessness of youth.

Commissioner Rivett-Carnac said: "It is true that enforcement, properly and consistently applied is capable of achieving immediate results in reducing accidents. . . ."

Kitten in Blimp? Reporter in Doubt

MONTREAL (CP) — There was no sign yesterday of a kitten reported Tuesday to have taken off in a blimp from suburban Dorval. And there was not a trace of the family that reported its disappearance.

A woman who gave her name as Mrs. Helen Prout told a reporter her husband Lorne had built a helium-filled model blimp for their son David, 8. She said David had put the white angora kitten, Cashew Prout, into the blimp's basket, then accidentally let the mooring line slip, sending Cashew off in the general direction of Montreal.

The reporter's attempt to follow up the story of the adventure Wednesday disclosed that the telephone number the woman gave is not hers, that the address she gave does not exist and that no one named Prout is listed in Dorval directories.

B.C. Going to Polls?

Spring Election 'Sure' PCs Prepare Plans

Provincial Progressive Conservatives will prepare for a spring election when they hold their annual meeting Oct. 24 and 25 at Harrison Hot Springs.

Their leader, Deane Finlayson, said yesterday he is convinced a provincial election will be called in the spring, so that Premier Bennett can seek another assured four or five years in office in order that Wenner-Gren Peace River power development can be pushed ahead.

Mr. Finlayson said the premier "is thoroughly committed to Axel Wenner-Gren and his friends who are heavily involved in the Rocky Mountain Trench. These friends of his are desperately anxious to get a water licence to utilize the Peace River hydro potential."

"It is important to them that they get that licence and get established ahead of any plan for development of the Columbia because while B.C. ultimately will consume the total output of both rivers, that will not be possible for many years.

"It will therefore be impossible to develop both simultaneously and the premier favors the Peace because of commitments to his political supporters there. So he'll have to have an election at the proper moment, and it will come certainly next spring."

U.K. Campaign Begins to Boil

Mud-Slinging Already?

... disengagement

LONDON (AP) — Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell called Thursday for disengagement in Central Europe.

In his first election campaign speech, he envisaged an area of controlled disarmament in East and West Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Addressing cheering delegates at the Trades Union Congress in Blackpool, Gaitskell said it is important, not only for Britain but for the entire world, to secure a Labor party victory in the Oct. 8 election.

Only a Labor government, he claimed, could guarantee that newly-developed opportunities to end East-West tension would be fully exploited.

Meanwhile, Lord Hailsham, Conservative party chairman, warned local party officials against over-confidence. He claimed that Labor supporters are resorting to mud-slinging and said the Conservatives never would stoop to such tactics.

"To us," he said, "conservatism is a crusade—the fight to preserve and extend our philosophy of freedom under the law. That philosophy has never been more needed or in more deadly danger than today."

In his Blackpool speech, Gaitskell declared that the Labor party would fight "the stuffed-shirt snobbery that still disfigures our society in Britain."

Labor party headquarters released brightly colored campaign pamphlets assailing Prime Minister Macmillan and members of his cabinet. Its title—The Tory Swindle 1951-1959.

The pamphlet notes that 13 cabinet ministers, including Macmillan, wear the old school tie of Eton, Britain's most exclusive private school. It added:

"A democratic government should include representatives of all sections of the people and not be drawn only from one narrow and privileged group. Judged by this standard, Mr. Macmillan's method of recruiting his government belongs to the 19th and not the mid-20th century."

Only about a dozen of Sweden's 130-odd cities have more than 50,000 inhabitants.

Then Landlady Relents

Negro Tenants Asked to Move

ST. CATHARINES (AP)—A St. Catharines landlady who ordered a Negro family to vacate their apartment because of "complaints from the neighborhood" has changed her mind and will allow them to stay.

Mrs. Saruhia Dardarian said Thursday night "they can stay as long as they like."

She rented the apartment three months ago to Charles Summers, 30, a truck driver and a native of St. Catharines, his wife, Ada, 20, and their two children, Charles, 2, and Pearl, 1.

After receiving two unsigned letters, the landlady gave the family notice to vacate at the first of the month. In the notice she said there were "complaints of having colored people on the street."

Mr. Summers said "we have nothing against Mrs. Dardarian. She might have been frightened by the letters."

He said they don't want to stay in the apartment because "we would like to have a small house."

Ships Cleared

CHEMAINUS—Only seven vessels were cleared through the Chemainus customs office last month with cargoes from the surrounding district—about one-third the normal amount.

The ships took out 7,199,927 pounds of pulp from the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. pulp mill at Crofton, customs Officer J. M. E. Van Cooten said.

No lumber was shipped due to the IWA strike, he added.

Fluoridation Referendum Awaits Test

A referendum on fluoridation of Victoria's water supply will be delayed for a year unless city council is persuaded to change its mind again.

Council yesterday approved a recommendation of the Victoria-Esquamalt health board that a referendum be postponed until a one-year test of fluoride treatment of school children's teeth is completed. The aldermen rescinded a decision made earlier this year to have a fluoridation referendum this December.

WRECK PLAN

Their action appears to wreck the plan of the Chamber of Commerce public affairs group to launch a fluoridation education campaign culminating in referendums in December in the city and municipalities.

The chamber group will meet today to discuss the new decision. One possibility is a drive for names on a petition for a referendum this December.

PROOF EXPECTED

Ald. M. H. Mooney said the health board believes the test of fluoride treatment of the teeth of a group of grade-one children will provide proof of the benefits.

Ald. Elmer McEwen criticized the plan to apply the fluoride directly to the children's teeth.

The test, he said, "should be carried out the same way as they intend us to have it, by drinking it."

"Whichever way it's done, it will give people some information so they can make up their minds," said Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson.

Swinging Belle

Southern Belle strikes a nostalgic note of old plantation days, with her hoop skirt flying out behind her, riding over the water at Florida's Cypress Gardens.

Speaker Tells Why

'Indian Culture Will Vanish But Its Effect Will Stay'

Indian culture will inevitably disappear in Canada but its impact on our national life will remain widespread, archaeologist J. Douglas Leachman said here last night.

"Many definite and concrete contributions to our culture have come from the native Indian peoples," he said. "But the details are disappearing even today."

"Few people in this country today think of the birch bark canoe as Indian. They also gave us the snow shoe and the toboggan."

"Take three vegetables—maize, or Indian corn, tobacco and potatoes. Those are three pretty important things in our everyday life, and we got them from the Indians."

PAGES LONG

"The whole list of their contributions is several pages long."

Speaking to members of the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society, he said about one in every 1,000 Canadians is an Indian. He predicted that the gradual assimilation of the native peoples will take up to 200 years.

Until his retirement, Mr. Leachman was an archaeologist with the National Museum of Canada. He now lives in Victoria.

Schools Exclude Negroes

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Private schools for white students were opened Thursday in a Virginia county with no provision made for educating 1,700 Negroes.

The answer in Prince Edward County to the U.S. Supreme Court ban on school segregation was termed the most serious development so far in the integration controversy by welfare secretary Arthur S. Flemming.

Prince Edward County is the first in the United States to abolish public education.

Seawater Pool May Be Pushed

If construction of an outdoor, heated swimming pool at Horseshoe Bay is practical the Victoria Chamber of Commerce may ask the Capital Improvement District Commission to build one.

The chamber's tourist trade group last night struck a special committee to check the proposal of a seawater swimming pool at Horseshoe Bay, or an alternative site, and named a city businessman, Tony Lort, as chairman.

A spokesman for the group said that if the committee finds a heated salt water pool is feasible the chamber will be asked to present the plan to the CIDC.

"Construction of such a pool would be a great asset to the tourist industry here and is long overdue," said the official.

He said the pool could be constructed with windbreaks along its sides so that it could be used all summer long.

Year's More Employment

Fall-Off in Building Boon to Local Workers

A general reduction in home building this year will mean an unexpected 12 months more work for some 17 Victoria employees of the Sidney Roofing Co.

The employees involved are among 35 who are still at work in the company's Victoria factory operating a felting machine. The company originally planned to shift the machine to its new site in Burnaby by January, 1960.

A spokesman said last night there is a reduction of house building in British Columbia and Canada generally, and it has been decided to leave the felting machine in Victoria until January, 1961.

About half of the Victoria employees are on staff and have agreed to move to Burnaby when the machine is shifted, but the other half were hired on a temporary basis.

The decision will also help several employees who are close to retirement. They had planned to retire at the end of 1959, rather than move to Burnaby for one or two years before retirement.

Retirement before the official retirement age would mean the men would receive only part pensions.

The company is still trying to sell its buildings, on Victoria's Inner Harbor. Some of the former office space has been rented.

happens the hardest part in the play, came off excellently.

It did seem, however, that Miss Thomson and Evan Jones, as Col. Redfern, tended to underplay, doubtless in the just cause of providing contrast. A slight element of first-night uncertainty was probably responsible for lack of variation in tempo.

"Look Back in Anger," directed by Flora Nicholson, is fine theatrical experience, particularly for those who delight in something to argue about after it is over.

'Look Back in Anger' Successful Problem

By BERT BINNY

The Victoria Intimate Stage opened what promises to be one of its most active seasons last night, presenting John Osborne's "Look Back in Anger" before a full house at the Art Gallery.

In the first scene of Act II, Alison, played by Margot Thomson, observes that "it isn't easy to explain," which could refer to the entire script. Mr. Osborne believes playwrights are under no obligation to provide answers—just problems.

This he accomplishes with eminent success as "Look Back in Anger" veers almost in the direction of presentational rather than representational drama.

Tony Nicholson provided a powerful Jimmy Carter, no matter what the degree of respect for the character. Daphne Legge-Williams made a thoroughly acceptable and consistent Helena and John Gillillano's Cliff Lewis, per-

Contract Sought for VMD

Mayor Rallies Forces

Series of Urgent Telegrams Fired at Cabinet Ministers

Mayor Percy Scurrell yesterday marshalled all available forces in an all-out effort to obtain one of two federal shipbuilding contracts for the West Coast.

He fired off a series of urgent telegrams to federal cabinet ministers in Ottawa and won promise of support from Vancouver's Mayor Tom Alsbury.

Victoria Machinery Depot was lowest of three west coast bidders on a contract for one on the 298-foot freighters Canada is building for the West Indies Federation. But several eastern shipyards undercut the VMD bid when tenders were opened yesterday in Ottawa.

"This tendering situation was expected," the mayor said yesterday. "The freight costs for steel alone make a tremendous difference."

The federal government will be asked to decide whether to bypass the Pacific Coast shipbuilding industry by awarding contracts on a national basis or award one contract to bidders from each coast as urged by Mayor Scurrell.

Estevan Getting Refit at VMD

The 46-year-old lighthouse tender and buoy vessel CGS Estevan is in Victoria Machinery Depot for annual refit and repaint. She was converted from coal to oil last year.

The latter policy would make VMD front-runner for a contract of about $3,000,000 which will provide badly needed work for local shipyard workers.

Neighbors Post $50,000 Bond For Little Rock Blast Suspect

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—E. A. Lauderdale, 48, a lumber dealer and one of two men charged with setting off three Labor Day dynamite explosions, was freed on $50,000 bond Thursday. Property bonds were posted by five friends and neighbors of Lauderdale, a Citizens' Council official.

Lauderdale, J. D. Sims, 33, a truck driver and Ku Klux Klan member, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 25, a truck driver, were arrested Wednesday.

Sims and Lauderdale were charged under an 1895 law against using explosives to destroy public property. Perry is being held only as a suspect in the explosions.

Three blasts went off in rapid succession late Monday, wrecking an office in the school board building, heavily damaging the private office of Mayor Werner Knoop in the headquarters of the construction firm of which he is president and ripping apart a city-owned station wagon of Fire Chief Gannalley.

At the Movies

'Anne Frank' Rich Fare

Too much advance publicity can sometimes be worse than too little in the curious world of show-business ballyhoo. "The Diary of Anne Frank"—now showing at the Royal—would have to be a sort of super-masterpiece not to seem an anticlimax.

ONE OF BEST
In my opinion, "The Diary of Anne Frank" in its screen edition is NOT a super-masterpiece... but it's one of the best movies of 1959 and a strong contender for several Academy Awards.

The film tells the true wartime story of eight Dutch Jews who managed to live together for more than two years in the attic of an Amsterdam spice factory while hiding from the Nazis who had overrun their homeland. But

Scientist's Hard Facts

Even Pharaoh Had Trouble With Arteries

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—No one should think that the tensions of our plush age are special in the history of man just because aging men now are prone to hardening arteries which may make them susceptible to heart attacks.

A scientist has pointed out to his colleagues, who are in conspicuous disagreement as to just what hardens arteries, that more than 4,000 years ago, male arteries were hardening as they aged and men were keeling over from heart attacks.

Prof. Walter Breutsch of the University of Indiana called their attention to an etching on the tomb of one Sesi, an Egyptian nobleman of the sixth dynasty, 2625-2475 B.C.

The top part depicts a man who is limp and collapsed, amidst his grieving servants. The bottom part depicts a sorrowing woman supported by her handmaidens.

DROPS DEAD

"This ancient scene is not unlike the tragedy that one encounters in present days, when someone drops dead of a 'heart attack,'" Dr. Breutsch told the American Heart Association.

There is a lot of other evidence, that artery-hardening has been afflicting males as they age for a long, long time. There was Menephtah, Pharaoh from 1280-1211 B.C.

ARTERY SHOWED

The main heart artery taken from his mummified body showed "advanced atherosclerosis with extensive depositions of calcium phosphate."

"In some mummies the abdominal aorta (a principal artery) was calcified in its entirety," he said. "The characteristics of the arterial lesions observed in Egyptian mummies leave little doubt that atherosclerosis in ancient times was of the same nature and degree as seen in today's postmortems."

Jail May Save Alcoholic's Life

A 33-year-old man who has been an alcoholic since he was 15 was sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich police court yesterday—with the earnest hope that he would make good use of this chance to help himself.

Clifford R. Davidson, no fixed address, had been charged with breaking and entering a home in Saanich, where he had been employed for a time.

"Your story," the magistrate told him, "is a shocking and frightening one—the story of a trail leading to insanity and death. Since the age of 15 your life has been utterly wasted..."

Magistrate Ostler told Davidson that in view of his record a suspended sentence or parole would do no good—"they'd just leave you free to start again."

Similarly, his age made him ineligible for correctional institutions and a psychiatrist said he could not be committed to a mental institution.

"The only thing to do is send you to jail," said the magistrate. "It may save your life by getting the liquor out of your system. It may well be your last chance."

"However, no program can help you unless you co-operate. I urge you to consult with the doctor at Oakalla and join the branch there of Alcoholics Anonymous. Give them more than lip service; heed them."

Snake River Salmon Loss 'Tremendous'

SPOKANE (AP)—The director of the Oregon Fish Commission says there has been a tremendous loss of young spring salmon at Brownlee Dam on the Snake River.

Albert M. Day said Wednesday that there should have been at least 1,000,000 fingerlings passing downstream.

But not more than 25 per cent have been accounted for, he said.

He said the nets installed to save fish at the dam have failed and that federal funds are needed to study fish-passage problems.

He urged $1,000,000 be appropriated for the 1961 fiscal year to study fish facilities already in operation in the Pacific northwest.

18 Years 'Utterly Wasted'

and don't abandon them when you get out."

Also in Saanich court, Violet Stanley, 214 Kingston, was fined $25 after being found guilty of creating a disturbance in the waiting room at St. Joseph's Hospital. Court was told she cursed an officer and another witness at the time.

Two Victoria men changed pleas of not guilty to guilty in city court yesterday in separate trials arising from the same set of circumstances.

Grant Perry Hallberg, 1710 Kings, and Harry Eric Liddle, 1122 North Park, were picked up by city police in the early hours of Sept. 2.

In court later that morning both pleaded guilty to a joint charge of breaking, entering and theft; Hallberg pleaded not guilty and Liddle guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent, and Liddle pleaded not guilty to obstructing a peace officer in performance of his duty.

Const. Norman Hansen told court yesterday that at about 5:20 a.m. Sept. 2, he checked a small panel truck on Pembroke near Government. Hallberg, alone at the wheel, told the officer it was not his vehicle, he did not know the owner and he and a friend had taken it from Fisherman's Wharf.

As they talked, Liddle came up behind the officer, grabbed him, poked something hard in his back and said:

"OK, cop. Don't move." "I then threw him to the ground," the officer said, "and he got up right away and ran off. I caught him in a few blocks."

Hallberg, who also ran off, was recaptured a short time later on Cormorant.

In the back of the truck, which belongs to Charles Round of Fisherman's Wharf, police found a television set. Investigation showed an apartment at 628 Pembroke, occupied by Charles MacMillan, had been broken into and the TV set stolen.

The two men were remanded on all counts to Sept. 15 for probation reports and sentence.

In the same court, Cyril Robert Hicks, 1601 Esquimalt, was fined $40 on a charge of theft under the value of $50. He had taken a set of keys to the Douglas Hotel beverage room. His age—18—a fair service record and lack of previous convictions, said Magistrate William Ostler, made the fine possible rather than a more severe penalty.

Joe Ong, 515 Cormorant, was fined $300 for illegal sale of liquor. A constable said he purchased a 12-ounce bottle of rye from Ong, and later found two more bottles at the premises.

Use This Home Recipe Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky unsightly fat right in your own home. Use this recipe plan yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full twice a day and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bulky disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Farewell Talk

A six-minute farewell address to the nation will be made by retiring Governor-General Vincent Massey over the CBC TV network Monday night. Swearing-in of his successor, Maj. Gen. George Vanier, will be telecast next morning.

Angry Icelanders Claim American Soldiers Unruly

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Foreign Minister Gudmundur Gudmundsson has ordered Iceland's members on the joint Icelandic-American defense committee to boycott future meetings following a series of incidents involving U.S. servicemen at the Keflavik air base, it was reported tonight.

A high foreign ministry source said that lack of morale and leadership at the U.S. base was the root cause of the trouble.

According to the sources, three Icelandic officials who were escorting two Americans to a hangar where Icelandic mechanics were working on a plane were challenged by the American guards who, they claimed, were hiding behind the hut.

According to the Icelanders, the five men were forced to stretch out face down on the wet tarmac at gunpoint in spite of attempt to explain they were on official business. The Icelanders pointed out they were in uniform but the only reply was: "You can buy a uniform anywhere," the sources said.

The five remained on the ground until a non-commissioned officer returned with one of the guards and ordered them released.

Lawyer-Princess Romance?

'Yes, I Am Not Engaged'

By PHYLLIS GRIFFITHS
(Special to The Colonist)

MONTREAL—Handsome bachelor-lawyer John Turner, 30, has admitted he has visited Princess Margaret in London quite often and is corresponding with her.

But the young Montrealer (known as Chick to his friends) gallily ducked the big question: Does it all add up to a romance?

Mr. Turner is the stepson of B.C.'s Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and was a top student and athlete during his days at the University of British Columbia.

In a telephone interview, he didn't ask the protection of the court nor did he admit he was courting the royal lady with whom he first sat under the stars at Victoria last year.

A London paper recently renewed stories that the tall, dark and eligible Canadian has been writing letters to Princess Margaret, 29, and seeing her whenever he is in England.

Mr. Turner's friendly and chaffing question and answer session goes on from there:

Q—Is this report true, Mr. Turner?

A—I was in London in April for two weeks. Months later The Express discovered that.

Q—Did you see Princess Margaret then?

A—I travel to England from time to time on confidential business and the people we represent wouldn't like it if there was publicity about my presence there.

PRINCESS MARGARET
... she sees him

Q—Have you been seeing Princess Margaret on your trips to England?

A—Sometimes yes, sometimes no.

Q—Have you been corresponding with her?

A—Not regularly.

Q—Are you the man who has been sending her flowers every week?

A—Ah, those red roses. As I told The Express when they phoned me, if I had been I wouldn't have let an American take the credit.

Q—Does that mean no?

A—Yes, I'd like to tell you that I know a lot of Princess Margaret's friends. They are mutual friends from when I was at Oxford, so we had things to talk about before we met.

Q—You can understand, Mr. Turner, that if you are a potential ...

A—Everybody's potential.

Q—Is there any romance between you and the Princess?

A—I don't think I'd better answer that (laughing). It falls into the category of "have you stopped beating your wife?"

Q—About those flowers?

A—All I know is what I read in the papers.

Q—So there will be no misunderstanding, would you answer it directly?

A—Right, I am sending her no flowers.

Q—Is the Princess writing to you or is that her business?

A—I think that's her business.

Q—Are you still unattached?

A—I'm not engaged to anybody. You know, this is rather fun. I know you people have to keep tab on these things. I get some joshing from the judges and so on, but I'm in a good-humored profession.

'I'll Back Mac' On Tory Lapels

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's forthcoming general election has produced badges with the slogans "I'll Back Mac" and "I'm a Mac Man."

The badges, an inch in diameter, show Prime Minister Macmillan laughing against a "Conservative blue" background.

SCULPTURE

Sculpture is symbolized by the calipers, mallet and chisel. In this ancient and meticulous art, as in the distillation of Grant's Stand Fast Scotch whisky, the tools of the trade are of utmost importance.

That is why Grant's takes such great pride in its two world-famous distilleries—Glenfiddich and Balvenie Glenlivet. Embodying every known science, facility and skill needed for the production of superior Scotch, these plants in themselves are symbols of the distiller's art.

Pearson Terms UN Cold War Ground

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lester Pearson, former president of the United Nations General Assembly, said yesterday he is pessimistic about the UN's future, mainly because it reflects the international picture rather than being a forum for bettering it.

Delaware Schools Integrated

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Two more southern Delaware schools, bowing to a federal court order, Thursday integrated Negroes with white boys and girls in first-grade classes.

All was peaceful. Parents, teachers and all others in the communities involved appeared unconcerned.

Heart Attack Killed Fliers Jury Rules

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (UPI)—An inquest jury ruled Thursday a heart attack caused the crash of a private plane Saturday in which two U.S. fishermen were killed. An autopsy showed Dr. James Wilcox, 50, of Bay City, Mich., pilot and owner of the new plane, died of a heart seizure. Other victim was William Mitchell, 54, of Bay City.

While I believe there's nothing more important than to work out international problems through the UN," Mr. Pearson told the Vancouver UN Association, "there are tendencies militating against its future development and success."

The former external affairs minister who now heads the Liberal party said there are "two frightened blocks viewing the UN as a cold war battleground for political propaganda, instead of a place to seek solutions."

"We based the UN Security Council on the idea that the countries in it could work together somehow. Well, they didn't."

SOME SETBACKS
Although there had been setbacks, Mr. Pearson said, "The United Nations remains indispensable."

Mr. Pearson also said at a press conference that the sending of a United Nations observation group to Laos is a good move and should be followed by a UN emergency force if a threat to peace is found there. He said the moves in Laos may have been planned by Communist China to show Mr. Khrushchev that the U.S.S.R. is not the only important Communist power.

Mayor's Deals Studied

EDMONTON (CP)—The report of Mr. Justice M. M. Porter on Edmonton's civic administration is "under consideration" by solicitors in the Alberta attorney-general's department.

John Hart, acting deputy attorney-general, said Thursday the solicitors "will advise the attorney-general whether any action should be taken."

'GROSS MISCONDUCT'

The report accused Edmonton Mayor William Hawrelak of "gross misconduct" in a land deal. Mayor Hawrelak resigned Wednesday, five weeks before completing his fourth two-year term as chief magistrate.

The mayor, wiping tears from his eyes, denied the charges.

"I categorically deny that there was any improper conduct on my part in regard to any of the matters under investigation or that I violated my oath of office," the mayor said in a statement.

He said any private transactions he had were not with the city and did not involve any city funds or land.

Veteran Alderman Fred Mitchell was elected to fill the mayor's post until the Oct. 14 municipal elections. Mayor Hawrelak did not make known his plans.

Jobs, Jobless Both Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both employment and unemployment declined in the U.S. in August, the labor department said yesterday.

Employment, affected by a big seasonal drop in farming, the steel shutdown and early auto model changeover, fell by 353,000 from July to 67,241,000. Unemployment fell to 3,426,000, or 318,000 less than July.

Tasty cheese 'n' cracker treats from this NEW jar...

to open cap!

Great for between-meal snacks, informal get-togethers and parties that just "happen". Zippy cheese flavor spreads smoothly from the jar on crispy crackers (round, square, triangle, any kind!). That's Kraft Cheez Whiz, the original cheese spread with a clever touch of seasoning. You'll like the convenience of this smart new jar and easy-to-open cap!

Two terrific flavors... you'll want both! Plain and Pimento in 8 ounce jars. Plain also comes in the economical 16 ounce size.

Enjoy Perry Como's Kraft Music Hall, favorite Wed. night TV show—starting Sept. 30.

NEW
FOUNTAIN-BALL PEN MAKE YOU ANY SMARTER
IN SCHOOL?

No, it won't. It will only prove you were smart to buy one in the first place. This new Eversharp pen won't necessarily improve your grades. If you flunked science without it, you'll probably flunk science with it. What this new ball point WILL do however, is make your writing more legible. You'll write better and faster, thicker and richer—and with less effort and more character. Teachers like to read words written with an Eversharp. Be kind to teachers. If you're going back to school soon, have yourself a ball point—an Eversharp Fountain-Ball point. It costs only $1.29.

Eversharp's Fountain-Ball is honeycombed with millions of tiny ink channels that feed ink all around the ball. The flow of ink is always constant, never thin, never clogs. That's why an Eversharp is so much better than ordinary ball point pens.

Everything from Chess to Charm to Diving

Record numbers are enrolling daily in a widest-ever array of Victoria night school courses which run the gamut from driving and playing chess to skin diving and charm development.

An official of the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board said yesterday upwards of 4,000 night school students are expected this year compared with 3,500 last year.

Enrollments are up 100 per cent over this time last year and will continue to be accepted up to the week of Oct. 5, officials stated.

More than 160 different courses are offered at tuition fees ranging from $4 for a seven-session series on personal financial planning and $3 for five lessons in book repairing to $20 for 10 lessons in skin diving and $40 for 20 sessions of arc welding.

A mere $7 investment will bring you 10 lessons on how to invest the rest of your fortune and for $15 you can learn how to build your own home. The sum of $12 will get you a course on public speaking or short story writing, or even 10 lessons of golf.

You can learn ballroom dancing for $10, floral arrangement for $7, boat building for $15, aviation ground school for $12 and third year contract bridge for $16.

For $35 you can learn to drive a car and for $20 you can learn how to take the automatic transmission apart and put it together again.

If you have sufficient earlier education you can win a junior matriculation certificate and if you haven't, you can get courses leading to matriculation.

Alan Batey, principal of night schools, said yesterday night school students should enroll as soon as possible in order to guarantee acceptance in any given class.

He warned that some classes may be filled before the courses open during the week of Oct. 5.

The courses, he pointed out, are self-supporting and operate without cost to the taxpayer.

A former day-school teacher, Mr. Batey said frequency of failures is lower at night school than anywhere else in the school system.

"People come to us with a real determination to learn and many of them put their new-found knowledge to good use," he said. A high proportion of the students enroll so as to better their employment status, the principal said.

"But no matter why they come to us we are glad to have them." A full list of available courses and tuition fees may be obtained from the Greater Victoria school board on request.

Au Revoir But Not Goodbye

Small Capsules

Highly Lethal Blasting Caps Still Missing

Saanich police are more interested in recovering 25 tiny but highly lethal blasting caps stolen last weekend than they are in arresting the thief, a spokesman said last night.

Juvenile Officer Harry Adams said the caps, stolen in the Cadboro Bay area between last Friday and Sunday, are still missing.

He said the theft is still believed to have been the work of juveniles and added that questioning of six boys yesterday disclosed that the theft took place prior to last Sunday afternoon.

Some of the youths questioned said they were playing in the vicinity of the place from where the caps were stolen on Sunday and that they saw the opened container in which they had been stored.

Oak Bay police joined the hunt for the highly-explosive capsules yesterday when they checked on a report that a group of boys throwing rocks at a paper bag at a beach had told a bystander it was filled with "blasting caps."

But the youngsters could not be located when police reached the scene.

The Saanich juvenile officer said "naturally we wish the boys who took the caps would give themselves up . . . but failing that we would breathe a lot easier if they would just telephone us and tell us where to pick the stuff up."

The caps can be exploded by the mere heat of a person's hand and can bring death or serious injury in the process.

They are in the form of small metal containers with red and yellow insulated wires attached to them.

Mortgage Dance Planned

Volunteer fire departments of lower Vancouver Island are working together to stage a benefit dance Oct. 16 in Colwood community hall. Proceeds will go into a fund to retire the $4,600 mortgage on the home of the widow of a Langford fireman who died on duty July 25.

Tickets will be on sale next Thursday from volunteer firemen at Sooke, Colwood, Langford, View Royal, Central Saanich and Sidney.

Civil Defence War Role

Underground Wiring

Expensive Shock Faces Merchants

Merchants in downtown Victoria are going to get an awful shock, Ald. Elmer McEwen said yesterday, when they have to hook up to the underground wiring system now being built.

"I know what you're talking about," Mayor Percy Scurrell agreed. "I'll be up against an expenditure of $4,000 to $5,000 myself."

The underground system is expected to supersede the overhead wiring in about two years, and Ald. McEwen broached the subject of city and private expense when council gave approval to this year's program of duct installation by the B.C. Electric.

Installing new light poles and other facilities, he said, would cost the city $150,000 or more, and "it's time we gave some thought to where the money's coming from."

Ald. Arthur Dowell suggested Ald. McEwen's utilities committee should study the question and report to council.

NOT AS AMBITIOUS

City Engineer James Garrett assured Ald. McEwen that this year's excavation work program was not as ambitious as last year's and that the work should be carried out with less disruption.

Last year, Ald. McEwen said, "No matter where you looked there was a hole, and a big one."

Time Not Ripe

City council yesterday said au revoir but not goodbye to the idea of a new city hall.

The aldermen unanimously rejected, with thanks, the proposal of Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. to build an eight-storey, $1,800,000 city hall, for lease and eventual purchase.

A LIVE ISSUE

But they agreed to keep a new city hall a live issue, with the aim of building one when Victoria can more easily afford it.

Mayor Percy Scurrell told council he had come to the conclusion that this was an inappropriate time to build a new city hall. Because of reassessment ordered by the province, and school costs, many taxpayers were having to pay increased taxes this year, and the money market was "very unfavorable at the moment."

MORE THAN $300,000

"But I do think that when the money market is easier we should consider building," he said. And in six months or a year there should be more than $300,000 in the city's land-sales fund, he noted, which could be used.

Ald. Arthur Dowell supported Ald. Geoffrey Edgell's motion to reject the Dominion Construction proposal, but called for construction of a new city hall soon.

WISHFUL THINKING

"To my way of thinking, it's just wishful thinking that interest rates are going to come down," he said. "Even if they do, building costs are going to go up. What we save in interest, we'll pay for in more building costs."

The time had come, he said, when Victoria had to revitalize "the whole business environment in the city, and nothing would do it more than a new city hall."

A new city hall would be "the finest shot in the arm Victoria ever had."

Ald. M. H. Mooney revived his earlier proposal, that the ratepayers be asked to approve the idea of paying slightly higher taxes for the next three or four years, the money being set aside with land-sales funds for a new city hall.

NOT BE WISE

"I think we all agree we do need a new city hall," said Mayor Scurrell. "I am very strong for keeping the matter alive, but just at the moment I don't think is the time to do it; we would not be wise to put it to the people in this election."

Ald. Dowell proposed, and council approved, the naming of a special committee to study thoroughly what should be done.

"The most important thing is to revitalize the whole downtown area," said Ald. Dowell. "Nothing has been done for years and years, and it's getting more derelict, and more derelict, all the time. Building a new city hall in another place would revitalize the whole city."

"I couldn't agree with you more," said Mayor Scurrell.

Fire Rescue Methods Shown

Mother Averts 'Sleeping' Death For Little Girl

A four-year-old Saanich girl who took what could have been a fatal dosage of sleeping pills late yesterday is scheduled to be released from St. Joseph's Hospital fully recovered later today.

Quick action by Mrs. Lena Abbott, 4095 Cedar Hill, probably saved the life of her daughter, Brenda, who accidentally swallowed seven second tablets which her mother had obtained for herself only two days earlier.

FRIGHTENING

"You never know how terribly frightening a thing like this can be until it actually happens to you," she said last night after learning that Brenda was recovering.

"The pills were kept high in a kitchen cupboard and I had no idea Brenda could get up there," the relieved mother said.

"The only way I can figure it out is that she must have used the high chair."

Mrs. Abbott first became alarmed when she saw her daughter behaving in a peculiar manner.

"She started getting groggy and then she started falling down."

"I called a doctor right away and he told me to walk Brenda around."

"I went to the kitchen and found the pill box open and called Saanich police."

A police emergency vehicle rushed to the Abbott home and took mother and daughter to St. Joseph's Hospital where the groggy youngster was treated with a stomach pump.

A doctor said Brenda was asleep when she arrived at the emergency ward.

FATAL DOSAGE

Another doctor said the dosage swallowed by the youngster "could well have been fatal."

Mrs. Abbott said Brenda must have mistaken the red second capsules for candies. "We are always very careful about pills and these were up high and completely out of sight," said the mother.

PRESCRIPTIONS

"I even throw away prescriptions when we have stopped using them," she added.

"I guess you just can't be too careful."

'Grad' Praises Open Prisons

A successful "graduate" of an open-type prison similar to the institution at William Head, told The Daily Colonist yesterday he didn't like to hear public criticism of the place, its policies or its methods.

"If I hadn't been in an open prison like that," said the Victoria man who preferred to remain nameless, "I would have been back in again long ago."

"As it is, I've finished my parole and I'm home free. I'm starting up my own little business—and if all goes well, come spring you can bet I'll be going to the John Howard Society and asking them to get me someone from William Head to work with me."

None of this, he said, would have been possible if he'd been in a closed prison. He was, once—and when released soon found his way back.

This time he was given a chance at the open prison in Ontario. There were no fences, and the place was right by a highway. He had his work; he drew his tools in the morning, worked till noon, had lunch, went back to work till dinner. Often he didn't see a guard all day.

The guards, incidentally, all wore blazers, slacks, white shirts and tie—no institutional uniform.

While he was there, of about 200 inmates only 11 broke out—a percentage about equal to the escapes at William Head.

"I guess there's always a few who can't resist the green grass on the other side," the man said. "The rest of us knew—and the fellows at William Head know—that this was our chance to go straight and stay straight."

"There are several others here like myself. I know I speak for them and the fellows in William Head when I ask people to stop knocking that place and yelling for fences. They're doing a good job, the best way."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: To look at me you'd never guess I had two teenage children. I have no grey hair, no wrinkles and no excess baggage.

A few months ago I became fascinated by an art dealer whose studio is near our apartment. I'm not the type to sneak around so I told my husband everything. I didn't want a divorce or a separation—only his patience and understanding until the tornado blew itself out.

Being broad-minded and intelligent he agreed to stand by. He treated me beautifully and we put up the usual front of a happily married couple.

In less than three months the affair was over. I love my husband more than ever for his maturity and strength. He is delighted to have me back on a full-time basis and is willing to forgive and forget. No one was hurt and I learned from experience there's no place like home. Now we're closer than ever. I feel that everyone profited—do you agree?—MITZIE.

Count Your Blessings

Dear Mitzie: If you're looking for a good conduct medal you came to the wrong place.

Consider yourself lucky your husband didn't broom you out when the tornado hit. Just because he didn't throw himself on the floor and chew the rug doesn't mean he wasn't deeply hurt.

And while you're counting your blessings, include a prayer of thanks that your children didn't hear the gossip. You were luckier all the way around than you had a right to be.

Dear Anne: Clark and I have gone steady for 18 months and we're getting engaged. The problem is the ring.

He comes from a well-to-do family and is rather spoiled. He works for his father at a good salary but spends everything he makes. Last year he bought an expensive sports car which made me angry.

Now he wants to give me a big diamond which was his mother's engagement ring. I told him I'd rather have a small ring—one he paid for himself.

He says I'm cracked. My mother agrees with him. Dad thinks I'm right. What do you think?—LORNA.

Dear Lorna: Congratulations. In this materialistic age when so many dames are hunting for husbands with a geiger counter it's refreshing to find a girl who isn't interested in a skating rink to shove under the noses of her girl friends. Stick to your guns. Tell Clark you're not marrying his father and you want only the kind of ring he can afford.

Let Myself In

Dear Ann: This noon, while the people who rent from us were gone, I took my key and let myself in. I had reason to suspect they had my hand-saw. I did nothing illegal after I got into the house. All I did was look around.

I didn't find the hand-saw but I did see a shot gun which disappeared from our back porch last year.

How can I get the gun back without letting them know I was in their house?—WALL-EYE.

Dear Walleye: You're not short on brass, Bub, and you may be in legal trouble. Look at your lease. Does it say you have the right to enter when the tenants aren't at home? If the lease gives you this right, then tell them you saw the gun and you're glad they "found it." If not, ask them to please keep their eyes open for the shotgun you "lost" last year, and nix on breaking and entering in the future.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experience of thousands of teenagers if you read Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

FURS IN AUGUST. While this is the month to purchase a fur coat at a price, no coat is a bargain unless it flatters your figure. Becomingness depends partly on the pile of the pelts.

Flat furs, such as broadtail, most enhance heavy or short figures. Denser pelts, such as beaver, are best carried by the tall-and-slim. As for mink, who's to say your figure can't take it, if your budget can!

Flattery also is affected by styling. And happy thought for August shoppers, new coats are made along the classic lines that grace every stature.

Silhouettes fall mainly into two types. The first comprises loose coats, with a free-flow from slightly widened shoulders to an emphatically-widened hem. The second group is represented by slim, easy reeders and overcoats.

For diversity, both types are often designed with a wide, back belt, and with a collar of contrasting fur. This detailing adds interest to a coat, but it also can add to a woman's girth. If you feel dubious, make your choice from the one-fur, unbelted styles.

But keep these facts in mind, and you'll get a real bargain—and pay less for more!

YOUR MOST BECOMING LINES

Do you know in detail what lines in clothing enhance your good points and play down the not-so-good? The right lines do both and so make a fine figure of a woman! How it's done is told in our leaflet, "Your Most Becoming Lines." Advice is individual, and includes silhouettes, necklines, shoulders, sleeves, belts, trims, and more. ## What's Cooking!

This Cake's Perfect To Serve the 'Girls'

By LOUISE MOORE

Why not relax, forget about the dust and the diapers, call in a few of the girls in the neighborhood for a chat and coffee.

The perfect go-together is this delicious cake that can be made days in advance, stored in the freezer and produced, fresh and moist.

BANANA BUTTERMILK CAKE

Cream 1 cup butter or other shortening and gradually beat in 3 cups sugar and beat until sugar is all dissolved. Add 4 eggs one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Mix and sift 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoons baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt. Add gradually to shortening mixture. Combine 2 cups mashed thoroughly ripened banana, ½ cup butter, milk and 1 tablespoon vanilla.

When well blended add to other mixture and beat until well blended. Bake in greased 13x8x2-inch pan in moderate oven 350° about 50 minutes or until done. Cool in pan. Frost top with a butter icing and form squares or triangles by dripping chocolate frosting of pouring consistency as in the finished cake. Or a lemon butter frosting is delicious with this cake.

COOKING HINT
Cheese should be cooked at a low temperature because a high temperature toughens proteins and makes it less easily digested.

Druet-Barr

Sister's Veil 'Borrowed'

TOFINO — Wearing her sister's wedding veil as "something borrowed," Miss Sheila Marian Barr, of Tofino, was united in marriage with Mr. Joseph Blair Druet, RCAF, St. Hubert, Que., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Druet, of Amherst, Nova Scotia, in a recent ceremony in this west coast town.

The couple was among the first to travel out of Tofino on the newly-opened highway to Port Alberni.

Miss Barr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Barr, Rev. Father, Kearney officiated in Holy Roman Church, Uchuellet.

Miss Barr was radiant in an imported model gown of sheer silk net and Belgian lace over taffeta with square neckline and bouffant skirt. Her French illusion veil was held by a rhinestone and sequin coronet and she carried red roses and stephanotis.

Attendants were Mrs. Ron Littlewood and Miss Geraldine Dietz of Vancouver.

Best man was Mr. Laurance White.

Following the ceremony, the couple received 350 guests in Tofino's Community Hall.

The couple left for St. Hil-

Heppell-Egan

Planning to reside in Victoria are recent Ontario newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas George Heppell married in Bolton United Church.

The bride is the former Lois Dianne Egan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Egan, of Bolton. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomas Heppell, of Victoria.

For the double-ring ceremony, Miss Egan chose a candle white rose patterned brocade gown with a Queen Anne collar and chapel train.

Attendants to the bride were Miss Doreen Richardson of Brampton, Ont., and flower girl, Deborah Egan. Ring bearer was Dwight Egan, the bride's brother.

The bride's uncle Mr. James Keachie was best man.

89 And Still Active

Mr. Robert Page, 144 Howe Street, celebrated his 89th birthday on September 5 with a cake and reminiscences. Mr. Page came from Tavistock, a market town in Devon, England, and became one of the first white settlers in the Red Deer district, Alta. He remembers riding 100 miles to Calgary for supplies without seeing a fence. Today he is still active, enjoys a daily walk and thinks his wife's cooking and their quiet contentment in Victoria keeps him healthy and happy.—(Photo by Ted Harris.)

Better Adapted, Says Expert

Women Tops in Space

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't let anyone tell you the fair sex is the weaker sex. Women can out-survive men in space says a TV-movie producer who has researched the subject.

"Women's bodies are built to withstand the tremendous shock of pregnancy. Their skin is constructed differently with insulating layers of fat which protects them from the cold. If shot into space, women could better endure the isolation and inactivity because they have less muscular and nervous energy than men, and women generally have more resistance to sickness," said Ivan Tors.

Garden Notes

Mountains of Flowers

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I imagine just about the busiest spot in town last night was Crystal Garden, where an army of volunteer workers was setting up the big fall show of the Victoria Horticultural Society. Truckloads of chrysanthemums, mountains of dahlias and glads and vast quantities of other flowers were arriving, along with enough fruit and vegetables to stock a supermarket.

The society's summer show was the largest ever held in Victoria, with well over 500 separate exhibits. Today's show looks like it might turn out even bigger and the arranging and ticketing of such a vast number of exhibits is a tremendous task. I doubt if the job was completed much before daybreak.

The big hall will be quiet this morning. Exhibitors and onlookers have all been thrown out and the doors locked while the judges go about their difficult work of deciding just which floral or vegetable displays merit awards. The chrysanthemum judges in particular have a singularly nerve-wracking job to do, as competition is extremely keen in this class, and I have often seen them parting the petals and peering into the interior of a big shaggy flower with a pocket flashlight before deciding between two close contenders.

The show will be open to the public this afternoon and evening and all day tomorrow. If you like to "shop" a flower show as I do, browsing leisurely around with pencil and notebook, jotting down the names of subjects you'd like to grow yourself, I suggest that you get there either early this afternoon or tomorrow forenoon, as the crowds are less dense at these times. It isn't a bad idea to pay a return visit Saturday evening, for they auction off a lot of plants and blooms at the end of the show. I've picked up some pretty good bargains in this way.

One of the special needs of Pampas Grass is an adequate supply of iron in the soil. Pampas Grass, or to give its proper name, Cortaderia argentea, is a hardy for iron and when this food element is deficient, you get weak, dwarfed plumes and some splitting and kinking in the leaves.

Those of my readers who live out on the West Saanich road and do their gardening on that lovely red loam won't have to worry about this — their soil is well stocked with iron, hence the red coloring — but the rest of us should give our clumps an iron tonic to promote glowing health and some super-duper plumes.

While chelated iron, sold under such names as Versenol and Squestrene, is probably the best form for an iron tonic, I have had very satisfactory results from the much cheaper sulphate of iron. This is a green-colored salt available at any drug store for just a few cents per pound. You won't need much of it, as each plant requires only one heaping tablespoonful dissolved in one gallon of water.

Apply in a watering can — take the "rose" off first — and pour very slowly around the outside edge of the clump. Rinse the can out thoroughly when the job is completed, as sulphate of iron will rust everything it touches.

Don't apply the tonic while the soil is dry, or the leaves will turn brown at the tip. Give the plant a good deep watering with plain water first. This is good practice whenever soluble chemicals of any kind are applied in water.

Barber Hits TV Clip

By John Crosby

There are a couple of barbers in show business. There's Perry Como, the $25,000,000 kid. Then there's Irving Steinberg, who hasn't got twenty-five million cents but who is authentically both a barber and an actor.

He became an actor just five years ago when he was already a grandfather 10 times over. "I got married when I was 17 and started becoming a family man real quick. Five kids — boom — just like that. Between barbering and music I play a trumpet. I was able to maintain a reasonable income. The kids had to eat. So, anyway, I wound up doing barbering. I got banged up on Salpan so I couldn't play the trumpet any more.

"One day this man came into my shop and tells me he is a TV director from New York named John Frankheimer and that he likes my quality, my value. He says to me, 'Do you think you'd like to work in television?"

"I say sure. So he says, 'We'll try it.' He says, 'You'll have to join the union.' So I show him my musician's union card. That night I go home and I tell my wife about it and we have a big laugh. I don't take it serious — you meet so many people barbering — but sure enough, I get the call from casting. I do the show. Pretty soon, I get another call. I've played everything from a Catholic priest to an escaped convict. I've done 100 shows for John."

This latest one happened to be the role of a prowler in S. Lee Pogostin's "People Kill People Sometimes," which Frankheimer was taping for NBC's Sunday Showcase. Steinberg was flown to New York from Los Angeles to play this role in which his face is hardly even shown to the camera. This suggests that Frankheimer regards Steinberg as a sort of good luck charm.

"There was a time when I had to make a big decision — acting or barbering. I thought about it and finally I went home and talked it over with my wife. She said, 'Irving, have I ever stood in your way?' So I became an actor.

"I don't take small roles that he plays but Irving takes them seriously. 'I have the happy faculty of being a chameleon. I can play varied amounts of characters. I'm not just a gimmick. You see I think John Frankheimer is a perfectionist and he doesn't keep anyone around who doesn't do his best.

"Lots of times I have more than one part. In 'For Whom the Bell Tolls' I played about twenty-two parts."

He said he'd never had any regrets — but like that other barber, Mr. Como, he still kept his hand in as a barber — just in case.

'Porgy' Must Make Millions

By Sheila Graham

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Sam "Porgy and Bess" Goldwyn's top secret: his next movie will be a story located in the Middle East. Sam must make $16,000,000 from "Porgy" before the George Gershwin classic can begin to show a profit — any of which will go to the Sam Goldwyn Foundation, a charity organization.

Anna Kashfi, former Mrs. Marlon Brando, is getting around. She did the town last week with three different men — all doctors, one a psychologist... Edmund Purdom has his problems. Second wife Alicia has cited seven women in her suit for separation.

Pier Angeli's lawyer, Louis Blau, believes she will receive her decree in December, with the custody of son Perry, now living with papa Vic Damone while mama Pier films "The Angry Silence" in Rome. Pier returns here in October.

Lex Barker, living high, wide and handsome in a villa in Rome, with his third wife, a young and beautiful German actress, has made six movies this year — as many as he made in six years when living in Hollywood.

Mamie Van Doren and Ray Anthony are still deadlocked over the property settlement... cute joke from producer Albert Zugsmith when asked to show the costume worn by Miss Van Doren in "The Private Lives of Adam and Eve": Mr. Z. pulled out a small envelope, opened it, and out came Mamie's costume... The Rock Hudson-Doris Day "Pillow Talk" is on the naughty side. Rock's singing in this one proves Frank Sinatra has nothing to worry about. But Rock has a good beat...

father in December. Peter, now costarring with angelie Angie Dickinson in "Rachel Cade" — was previously with Audrey Hepburn in "The Nun's Story."

David Wayne is set to star on stage and probably in the movie version of John Patrick's new play, "The Juniper and the Pagan." I hope lightning will strike twice for the likable David. He had a long stage run in "Teahouse of the August Moon." I still say that David and not Marlon Brando should have played the crafty interpreter in the movie version.

Elsa Maxwell gave a different kind of party on the Lido at Venice for guests to come as the thing they most dislike. I was amused to learn of the dither about the beatniks in Venice. Venice in Italy is full of beatniks of all nationalities, many with beards.

Merle Oberon, happily married to Mexican millionaire Bruno Paglia, will add a sister to her adopted son, "A lovely boy, of Irish-Italian origin, like me. He's adorable." She is spending $85,000 to add a nursery to her magnificent home in Bel Air.

The divorced Mrs. Ernest Borgnine, who is suing to set aside her interlocutory decree, states that all she wants is a support allowance for their daughter Nancy, who has a $50,000 insurance policy from Dada. The interest on this is not enough, in the opinion of Mrs. Borgnine.

Opening lead: 4 2

With a partner who had not already passed, South's hand would have been too strong to open with four spades, for fear of missing a slam. After North's original pass, however, South was quite content to shoot for game; meanwhile freezing the opponents out of the auction.

Declarer won the trump lead, and surmised that he would have to lose two diamonds, a club and a heart — unless he could find a way either to stuff one of his losers or to endplay one of the defenders into a favorable heart return. The latter possibility was remote because of the numerous minor suit cards with which the defence could exit. After a moment's thought, South saw another solution which gave him a 50-50 chance. If he could find West with the heart jack, he could throw one of his minor suit losers on the heart ten.

South drew three trumps, and led the heart queen, ducking on the board. East won; cashed the ace and queen of diamonds, and led a club. South went up with the ace; led his low heart, and finessed gummy's ten-spot. When that held, the ace was cashed, and the club five discarded.

Note that if West held the heart king and covered declarer's queen, dummy would still duck to preserve an entry as well as a finessing position against the jack which must be in West's hand for South to make the contract.

Family Safe, Mother Rushes to Death

PORT ANGELES, Wash. — A mother died tragically yesterday when she dashed back into her burning home, unaware that her husband had rescued their four small children.

The body of Mrs. Gail Shier, 34, was found later in the ruined interior. Firemen said she apparently was overcome less than a foot from safety while trying again to escape. Shier was cut and slightly burned and their 21-day-old twins, a girl and boy, suffered superficial burns. A three-year-old son and 1½-year-old daughter were unhurt.

SYDNEY — Princess Alexandra, displaying a cheerful disregard for formalities, received an enthusiastic ticker-tape welcome to this Australian metropolis.

WASHINGTON — Robert Kennedy resigned as chief counsel of the U.S. Senate rackets committee with a parting shot at his long-time adversary. Teamster president James Hoffa, saying the purpose of his job has been "fruitfully realized" with recent passage of the labor reform bill.

SOUTH SHIELDS, England — Mrs. Ada Cummins, 38, who lives with her seven children in one room, has signed an agreement exchanging her unborn eighth child for a house. The baby is due in December.

HAMBURG, Germany — West German economics minister Ludwig Erhard will meet tycoon Hyman Cantor in New York in October to confer with him on building Cantor's proposed 90,000-ton super passenger liners in Germany.

WASHINGTON — The U.S. board of immigration appeals upheld a deportation order against former Venezuelan president — dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

OTTAWA — Truck driver Ronald Brazier, 29, of Hull, admits he tricked this city out of more than $20,000 through years when only 60,000 gallons were actually delivered.

DONCASTER, England — Bootmaker Wilfred Hunter has a tough order to fill—for a fullgrown elephant-in India. A maharaja ordered a pair of boots for the animal to wear in ceremonial processions.

CALAIS, France — Paul Heron, 38, of Sacramento, Calif., has abandoned his bid to make the first non-stop, round-trip English channel swim after stroking to France from Dover in 15 hours and 10 minutes.

LONDON — No thanks, said the Duchess of Kent to hypnotist Henry Blythe, who offered to help her son pass a car driving test. The son, Michael, failed the first time.

SEATTLE — Dr. Simeon Cantrell, 50, said to be one of the world's leading experts on effects of atomic radiation, has died of a heart attack.

DURHAM, Ont. — Loaded with four tons of coal, a truck was climbing a steep hill when its brakes failed. Driver James Lunn, 40, steered the truck over a railway crossing, across a bridge, through a red light and around a double-parked station wagon—all in three blocks—and backwards.

OTTAWA — Fred Whitehouse of Ottawa will retire as general secretary of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association at the association's annual convention in Winnipeg next week.

WASKESIU, Sask. — Lowell Besely of Montreal, a forestry research executive, says Canadian forest fire research apparently is lagging far behind the needs of forest fire organizations.

Brahms to Jazz Here Tonight

Victoria residents looking for entertainment tonight, phony concert, a play, two short plays and a vocal group, and progressive jazz.

The Victoria Symphony Society opens its 1959-60 season with a concert in Sidney's SANSCHA Hall at 8:30 p.m.

The program consists of Tchaikovsky's "1812" Overture and Brahms' Symphony No. 1 in C Minor.

Patrons at the concert will be given forms and asked to express their views on a series of three Friday evening concerts tentatively planned for Sidney during the winter.

If sufficient interest is shown, the concerts will likely be held Nov. 6, with pianist Sheila Henning; Jan. 8, with British conductor, Dr. Boyd Neel; and March 4, with soprano Iona Kombrik. In Victoria tonight, "Look Back in Anger," the play by "angry young man" John Osborne, continues with all seats sold.

Two plays and a vocal group are on the first presentation by the St. Matthias Little Theatre Society. This starts at 8:15 at St. Matthias Hall on the corner of Richmond and Richardson.

The two plays are "The Boor" by the Columbi Club and "Five to Five Thirty" in initial production by the St. Matthias Group. John Dreen's "Octaves" supply the vocal numbers with Frank Allen as the moving spirit behind everything.

The Buddy Glover Trio plus two other featured artists gladden the "Scene" at 1306 Wharf Street, stamping ground of the Progressive Artists. Proceedings start at 10:30 with Buddy Glover at the piano, Ken Hole on bass and Gerry Adamus on drums. With them will be alto saxophonist Bob MacDonald, and trombonist Dave Robertson.

Students Stream To College

A steady stream of students continued to file through the registrar's office at Victoria College yesterday to register for the new term.

By last night a total of 220 first year, 76 second year and 23 third year students in the arts and science faculties had registered. About 600 in the two faculties are expected to register before the deadline tomorrow.

Number of students attending the college is expected to swell to more than 1,000 when education students are registered during the first three days of next week.

Icebreaker At Yarrows

The new $4,000,000 icebreaker Camshell is in Esquimalt fitting out before being turned over to the department of transport Oct. 9.

Yarrows Ltd. was awarded the contract and gave Burrard Dry Dock the subcontract to build the hull. The 48-foot beam was too wide for the ways at the local yard. The 223-foot hull was launched at Vancouver last February and towed here.

The department of transport will use the Camshell as an Arctic supply vessel, as well as to service navigational aids and carry supplies to light-houses up and down the west coast.

Ethics Bother Ald. Dowell In Second Call for Tenders

City council yesterday decided to accept the highest of three bids on city-owned property on Kingston for construction of a big apartment block, despite strong misgivings on the part of Ald. Arthur Dowell.

Earlier this year, bids were invited and B.C. Land and Investment Agency on behalf of Gerald Hamilton and associates, submitted the only tender, $22,500.

Then council found the city hadn't proper title to a road allowance included in the property. It called for new tenders after the error was rectified.

B.C. Land and Investment Agency submitted the same bid, Imperial Bank of Canada, on behalf of C. Gordon Chapman Ltd., of Toronto, offered $32,100, and council voted to accept it.

Ald. Dowell wondered how ethical council was being.

"I'm confident in my mind that if there had been no legal entanglements, it would have been sold for $22,500," he said. "I'm worried about the moral responsibility we have to the original tenderer."

Public works committee was asked to report within 60 days on desirability of having one-hour parking throughout the downtown area instead of two-hour parking in some places.

Council authorized sale of 18 lots to the Kiwanis Village Society for $6,000 after Ald. Dowell, a Kiwanian, recalled the society had offered $3,000 for 14 of the lots, then $4,500 for all of them.

"I'd like to give it to them. They are doing a wonderful job," he said. "But we are here as trustees of the people's property. I think $6,000 is a fair and reasonable price."

A start early this fall on an urban renewal study by the Capital Region Planning Board was ensured by council's application to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for an $18,500 grant toward the $25,000 cost.

The survey may lead to redevelopment of some rundown Victoria areas, with federal financial aid.

The aldermen approved preparation of a draft agreement by city, Esquimalt and school board solicitors for establishment of a reconstituted health board.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said council would still have control through its representatives, the agreement would be on a year-to-year basis and Oak Bay and Saanich might see fit to join.

Silver Threads' Choice

Newest candidate for the title of Miss Red Feather, 1959, is Mrs. Mabel Peterson, 2594 Penrhyn Street. She was the unanimous choice of the Silver Threads Handicraft Club, of which she is secretary. The Community Chest drive for $325,000 opens with a parade and ceremony Sept. 25.

Run Along, Deer —He's Hunting

COLUMBUS, Ind. (UPI)—Carl McKinney complained yesterday that a buck deer is spoiling his squirrel hunting because it loves him too much.

Everywhere McKinney goes in the woods southwest of Columbus, the deer is sure to go.

The squirrels are scared stiff of the deer and run away before McKinney can take a shot at them.

McKinney said the deer fell in love with him two weeks ago when he drove into the woods just before sun-up.

He parked his car and was drinking coffee from a thermos when a yearling buck nibbled at his coat sleeve.

It Loves Him And Saves Squirrels

but I was afraid his hooves would cut the upholstery," McKinney said.

McKinney bade the deer farewell and went about his hunting. The deer followed him.

"I got two squirrels," McKinney said. "But I would have gotten four except for that deer. He kept pulling at green leaves in the woods and scaring the squirrels away."

"I got a switch and tried to shoo him off, but he wouldn't go."

At noon, the deer shared

McKinney's lunch, but passed up an onion. McKinney hunted three times later in the area. The deer showed up each time. McKinney's gun didn't frighten the deer, except when he fired it. The animal would back away, but come right back to nuzzle McKinney.

McKinney told reporters about the deer. Photographer Stu Huffman went with McKinney on his next trip. The deer showed up and nuzzled McKinney. But when it saw Huffman it ran away.

McKinney later learned the deer was found as a newborn fawn by James Kendall, of Cortland, Ind., and was domesticated by the Kendall family.

Chevy Unveils Rear-Engined Small Corvair

DETROIT (AP)—Chevrolet officially joined the small-car battle Thursday with details on its new Corvair, first American car with the engine in the rear.

Ford unveiled its small Falcon a week ago. Still to come from the industry's big three is Chrysler's Valiant. It will be along in November. The Corvair will go on sale Oct. 2; the Falcon Oct. 9.

The Corvair has an air-cooled six-cylinder engine made mostly of aluminum and mounted, in what up to now always has been the trunk compartment on American cars.

It will be built at first only in four-door sedan models. These will weigh 2,375 pounds. They will be 15 feet long, about 2½ feet shorter than the 1959 Chevrolet; four feet, three inches high and five feet, seven inches wide.

It will have about 90 horsepower.

Like the other two new compact cars, the Corvair will have a "unitized" body—a one-piece unit rather than a body shell bolted to a frame. American Motors' Rambler also uses this type of body construction.

Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, told a national press preview that the Corvair will get 25 to 40 per cent better gasoline mileage than the standard Chevrolet six-cylinder model.

He said the over-all weight distribution of 60 per cent in the rear and 40 per cent in the front—almost an exact reversal from front-engine cars—will give excellent traction in mud, snow or ice along with light-touch steering.

It Was 33 Years Ago!

School Opening Marks Big Day at St. Michael's

The 50th anniversary of St. Michael's School in Oak Bay will be marked Sept. 19, when founder K. C. Symons officially opens a new school building at 820 Victoria Avenue.

The original school building, at 2176 Windsor Road, was condemned last winter following a fire safety inspection. The new, $125,000 school includes seven classrooms, a library, offices and a gymnasium. The gymnasium is still under construction.

Money to construct the new school was donated or pledged between January and the middle of June. Site includes two acres of land, providing space for playing fields.

Some 130 students are enrolled at the school for the 1959-60 school year.

Only 12 Hours Left To Fix Water Plan

With less than 12 hours to go before they are due to explain a proposed $500,000 water supply bylaw to Saanich residents, Central Saanich councillors still haven't finally decided what form it will take.

An emergency meeting of the council will be held early today to discuss the proposed bylaw.

SUPPLY PLAN

A public meeting, to hear details of the scheme, has been set for 8 p.m. tonight in Mt. Newton High School.

The plan, as originally adopted by council, called for a $586,465 bylaw to provide the area with an adequate water supply.

This included $83,120 for the construction of a 500,000-gallon concrete reservoir near the Saanichton experimental farm, and $503,345 for lateral water lines from a 12-inch water main which runs from Elk Lake to Patricia Bay.

Petitions from 52 residents on Mount Newton Crossroad, asking that their area be excluded from the grid plan, was heard by council yesterday.

P. S. Lomas told the council residents of the Mt. Newton Crossroad area have plenty of water at present and do not want the expense of participating immediately.

Reeve Brown said last night that consulting engineer Howard D. Dawson, who prepared the original plans for the new water system, would possibly present an entirely new grid plan to this morning's meeting.

FIRE DANGER

The original scheme included installation of 76 hydrants to lessen the fire danger.

The council intends at present to hold a public plebiscite on the water supply bylaw Sept. 26.

A petition from some 200

ratepayers last year sparked the project and Mr. Dawson, a former Saanich municipal engineer, was engaged to design a suitable system.

WATER TRUCKED

Many farms in the area are short of water in the summer and many householders truck water to their homes to fill their needs.

Central Saanich municipality has been offered the 12-inch water main for only $1 by the Department of Transport. The line was originally installed in 1943 to supply the airport at Patricia Bay when drilling failed to locate an adequate supply. Condition of the sale is that the airport should continue to draw water from the main.

Khrushchev Speaks

War to Us Misery, Tears, Grief

By NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

(Copyright by Council on Foreign Relations, Inc., New York)
(Second of a Series)

One does not need to delve deeply into history to appreciate how important it is for mankind to insure peaceful co-existence. And here it may be said parenthetically that the Europeans might have benefited a great deal in their day if, instead of organizing senseless crusades that invariably ended in failure, they had established peaceful relations with the differently minded peoples of the Moslem East.

But let us turn to facts concerning the relatively recent past when the watershed between states no longer consisted of different religious creeds and customs, but of much deeper differences of principle relating to the choice of social systems.

This new situation arose on the threshold of the Nineteen Twenties when, to the booming of the guns of the Russian cruiser Aurora, which had joined the rebellious workers and peasants, a new and unprecedented social system, a state of workers and peasants, came into the world.

Strangle the Infant

Its appearance was met with the disgruntled outcries of those who naively believed the capitalist system to be eternal and immutable. Some people even made an attempt to strangle the unwanted infant in the cradle.

Everybody knows how this ended: our people voted with their arms for Soviet power, and it came to stay. And even then, in 1920, V. I. Lenin, replying to the question of an American correspondent as to what basis there could be for peace between Soviet Russia and America, said:

"Let the American imperial-

ists not touch us. We won't touch them."

From its very inception the Soviet state proclaimed peaceful co-existence as the basic principle of its foreign policy. It was no accident that the very first state act of the Soviet power was the decree on peace, the decree on the cessation of bloody war.

What, then, is the policy of peaceful co-existence?

In its simplest expression it signifies the repudiation of war as a means of solving controversial issues.

All States Obligated

Apart from the commitment to non-aggression, it also presupposes an obligation on the part of all states to desist from violating each other's territorial integrity and sovereignty in any form and under any pretext whatsoever.

The principle of peaceful co-existence signifies a renunciation of interference in the internal affairs of other countries with the object of altering their system of government or mode of life or for any other motives.

The doctrine of peaceful co-existence also presupposes that political and economic relations between countries are to be based upon complete equality of the parties concerned and on mutual benefit.

It is often said in the West that peaceful co-existence is nothing else than a tactical method of the Socialist states. There is not a grain of truth in such allegations.

Our desire for peace and peaceful co-existence is not conditioned by any time-serving or tactical considerations.

It springs from the very nature of Socialist society in which there are no classes or social groups interested in profiting by war or seizing and enslaving other peoples' territories.

Unlimited Market

The Soviet Union and the other Socialist countries, thanks to their Socialist system have an unlimited home market, and for this reason they have no need to pursue an expansionist policy of conquest and an effort to subordinate other countries to their influence.

It is the people who determine the destinies of the Socialist states. The Socialist states are ruled by the working people themselves, the workers and peasants, the people who themselves create all the material and spiritual values of society.

And people of labor cannot want war. For to them war spells grief and tears, death, devastation and misery. Ordinary people have no need for war.

Contrary to what certain propagandists hostile to us say, the co-existence of states with different social systems does not mean that they will only fence themselves off from another by a high wall and undertake the mutual obligations not to throw stones over the wall or pour dirt upon each other.

Threat of War

No! Peaceful co-existence does not mean merely living side by side in the absence of war but with the constantly remaining threat of its breaking out in the future. Peaceful co-existence can and should develop into peaceful competition for the purpose of satisfying man's needs in the best possible way.

We say to the leaders of the capitalist states: Let us try out in practice whose system is better, let us compete without war.

This is much better than competing in who will produce more arms and who will smash whom. We stand and always will stand for such competition as will help to raise the well-being of the people to a higher level.

The principle of peaceful competition does not at all demand that one or another state abandon the system and ideology adopted by it.

It goes without saying that the acceptance of this principle cannot lead to the immediate end of disputes and contradictions that are inevitable between two countries adhering to different social systems. But the main thing is insured: the states that decide to adopt the path of peaceful co-existence repudiate the use of force in any form.

In our age of the H-bomb and atomic techniques this is the main thing of interest to every man.

Dog Finds Bank Loot

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP dog has recovered an estimated $9,200 believed stolen from a suburban Burnaby Bank of Nova Scotia branch yesterday by three masked men. The police dog led searchers to the money. Three suspects were being held but no charges have been laid.

Puffy's Tub Is Home Sweet Home

'Foolish to Fight Over a Mountain'

Stock Camps For Loggers

Food was reported being sent into northern logging camps yesterday by the coastal forest industry in anticipation that the 66-day-old woodworkers strike will be over next week.

Industry sources said skeleton crews could begin work by Monday if the strike is settled this weekend. Full operations would resume about Wednesday.

TWO-YEAR PACT
It appeared certain that the 27,000 striking members of the International Woodworkers of America would approve a proposal that they settle for a 20-cent wage increase over two years, with an additional 10 cents for tradesmen. Minimum pay now is $1.72 an hour.

There was still no official word whether the operators, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, would accept the proposal by government-appointed mediator Dr. John Deutsch. A statement is expected today.

NEW DELHI (UPI) —

Prime Minister Nehru told parliament Thursday that it would be foolish to go to war with Communist China "over this mountain or that, however beautiful they may be" — but he declared India's border integrity must be respected.

Nehru spoke on the heels of a new exchange of strongly worded notes between Peiping and New Delhi. Each side accused the other of aggression and demanded withdrawal of the other's forces.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon warned Peiping India's frontiers were sacred and stressed determination to "defend ourselves" if the Reds launched an aggression.

The Chinese note demanded India get out of "all areas that have been invaded," and warned that "any armed provocation will certainly meet a firm rebuff from Chinese frontier guards."

In reply, India said its troops will "prevent illegal intrusion by foreign forces into their territory," but indicated willingness to accept the Communist bid for "friendly negotiations" on the issue.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Eisenhower last night challenged Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to bring with him to Washington "constructive ideas and suggestions" that could provide the basis for easing world tensions.

He again urged Americans to receive Khrushchev with "courtesy and dignity" and expressed "profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming" from his talks with the Soviet official.

He said no one should be "so bold as to predict such an outcome."

BETTER ATMOSPHERE

But he said that if "an improved atmosphere of mutual understanding and serious purpose" could be created, "it would be possible to attack, with renewed hope, the problems that divide us."

Warning that "the choice before world leaders is momentous," Eisenhower said that if Khrushchev "has constructive ideas and suggestions that could provide the basis for responsible negotiation... we would welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

He said Khrushchev's 13-day visit, which begins Tuesday, would be "a thousandfold worthwhile" if it gave him "some real appreciation" of the spirit and conscience of America.

AMERICA PRAYS

"I know that all America prays to the Almighty that this might come to pass," he said.

He said he asked Khrushchev to this country so that he might see "what America and Americans are like and see and feel a great thriving nation living in real freedom."

He said he also wanted to give the Soviet leader "face to face, the basic convictions of our people on the major issues of the day, including West Berlin, and to hear from him directly his own views on those issues."

Noting that an east-west summit meeting might be an outgrowth of his talks with Khrushchev, Eisenhower again declared that before he will agree to such a conference Russia must give positive assurances that "our status and rights in Berlin" will be respected.

In his 15-minute address, the president also reported at length on the results of his recent diplomatic mission to Europe. He said his "most memorable impression" was "that the people of Europe deeply like the people of America."

Crowds Mourn Le Chef

THREE RIVERS, Que. (UPI) — The late Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec, was buried yesterday in a small family plot overlooking the city which called him "Our Maurice."

SOLEMN REQUIEM

Duplessis' bronze coffin, lowered into a grave beside that of his father in St. Louis cemetery early this afternoon after a solemn requiem mass was said in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of The Immaculate Conception by Msgr. Georges-Leon Pelletier, Bishop of Three Rivers.

Provincial police estimated that almost 70,000 mourners lined the sidewalks of the city, on the western bank of the St. Lawrence River midway between Quebec City and Montreal.

Well over 100,000 persons filed past the premier's body as it lay in state.

Early-to-Rise, Late-to-Bed Nikita's Fate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will follow an early-to-rise, late-to-bed schedule during his U.S. visit, it was disclosed yesterday.

The White House made public the anxiously-awaited details of Khrushchev's visit. Included was a white tie dinner at the White House, a farmhouse luncheon and a tour of a movie lot.

More conventional highlights of the first nine days of his 13-day tour, which begins next Tuesday, were visits to an IBM plant, an agricultural research station and dinners with union leaders, finance chiefs and political and civic figures.

TRIP TO CONGRESS

Notably missing was any mention of a trip to Congress — still in the throes of adjournment.

Also noted was the fact that the schedule specified white tie for the White House dinner honoring Khrushchev. Khrushchev's dinner for the president at the Soviet embassy the following night will feature "optional" dress.

A Soviet embassy spokesman said he did not know whether Khrushchev would wear white tie and tails to the White House. While ambassador Mikhail Menshikov has done so, one report was that Khrushchev has never donned such fancy garb.

PRIVATE CITIZENS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former New York Gov. Averell Harriman and corn farmer Roswell Garst of Coon Rapids, Iowa, were the only private citizens scheduled to entertain the Russian leader in their own homes.

The agenda for only the first nine days started with Khrushchev's arrival at Andrews air force base here at 11:30 a.m. EDT, and ended with his arrival at Pittsburgh at 11 p.m. EDT, Wednesday, Sept. 23.

The rest of the schedule, to include private Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at the president's heavily-guarded camp David retreat in Maryland's nearby Catoctin mountains, will be made public later.

After being greeted by President Eisenhower, Khrushchev and his wife and the president will lead a motorcade from the airport to the president's guest house, where the Khrushchevs will stay.

The next item is a private Eisenhower-Khrushchev luncheon at the president's guest house. That will be followed by a 3:30 p.m. Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference at the White House and the 8 p.m. White House dinner.

Paul Sauve Named Quebec's Premier

QUEBEC (CP) — Paul Sauve, 52-year-old youth and welfare minister under the late Premier Duplessis, on Thursday night became premier of Quebec.

Lieutenant-Governor Osmine Gagnon called Mr. Sauve and said: "I have the honor to ask you if you will form a new government."

Mr. Sauve replied: "I beg the honor to consider this overnight and I will have a list of ministers ready by 9:45 or 10 a.m. tomorrow."

Mr. Sauve takes over the post left vacant last Monday by Maurice Duplessis, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Swearing-in likely will be today but it is only a formality. Mr. Sauve's selection followed a series of meetings on the part of old cabinet members and party members at the legislature buildings here.

CHOICE MADE

First the members of the former cabinet grouped to make their choice, drawing up a petition asking the lieutenant-governor to call on Mr. Sauve.

Then, the former ministers took it to members of the Union Nationale party in caucus. They asked that the party members add their support to the petition in the interest of party harmony.

LOUD APPLAUSE

Minutes after the petition went into the locked chamber, loud applause was heard. Lieutenant-Governor Gagnon made his brief call and then the ceremonies were over.

Duncan 'Attack' On Cowichan Result of 'Error'

DUNCAN—City clerk Gordon Berry last night corrected "an error" given two weeks ago at a Duncan city council meeting which caused an attack by council on North Cowichan's policy for Pioneer Park.

Ex-Reeve Praises Accuser

DUNCAN—A former Oak Bay reeve and former chairman of the Oak Bay police commission yesterday praised an RCMP constable in Duncan police court for laying a traffic charge against him.

Walker pleaded guilty to passing another car in an area marked with a solid centre line. The complaint was laid by Const. Norman R. Harvey-McKean.

"I'd like to meet him again, but under different circumstances," Mr. Walker told Magistrate A. C. Sutton.

Police evidence was that Walker passed several cars on a section of the Trans-Canada Highway which was marked with a solid centre line, near Cobble Hill.

"It was just an oversight," Walker told the court. "I thought they were turning." "The lines are there for a purpose," Magistrate Sutton commented, fining Walker $10 for the offence.

'Watch Out' Boy Told In Duncan

DUNCAN—A 15-year-old Victoria juvenile was given a stern warning to mend his ways and stop being a nuisance to his parents yesterday by Judge A. C. Sutton.

The youth appeared in Duncan juvenile court charged with driving without a licence. His father said the boy was using the car without his consent.

When stopped by police the teenager said he had a licence but did not have it with him. He failed to produce it to police later after being given a checkup slip.

"The laws are there for the good of the public and yourself," Judge Sutton said. He warned the youth that he had better watch his actions or he would "grow up having a record as long as your arm."

Cobble Hill Sunshine Makes Fair Success

COBBLE HILL—Golden sunshine helped make the golden anniversary fall fair of the Shawinigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute a success, despite only "average" entries.

The one-day fair drew "nothing but very pleased comments" from both exhibitors and spectators, president W. H. Dunn said yesterday.

Attendance hit a near-record level with some 700 persons admitted.

Entries in the vegetable and field crop sections were lower than normal, Mr. Dunn said. Drought conditions in the district were blamed for the decrease.

MLA Herbert Bruch, who officially opened the fair, complimented officials on keeping emphasis on the agricultural side of the fair.

Duncan Asked to 'Discover' Downtown Garbage Cans

DUNCAN—Three garbage receptacles put into the downtown area of Duncan by the city council are going to be relocated in the hope they will be "discovered" by residents.

"No one is using them," commented Ald. Steve Saunders. Councillors reported that although the $75 receptacles have been in the streets for several weeks "there's still lots of trash being thrown around."

Bermuda, Europe

Alberni Girls Home From Offbeat Tour

PORT ALBERNI—Two Port Alberni girls have returned home with appetites whetted for further travel after a journey which took them over about one-quarter of the world. Elizabeth Crozier and Lucille Primeau agreed that "anyone can do it." They earned their own way, watched their budgets and chose routes which took them away from the main stamping grounds of tourists.

Bermuda, England and most of continental Europe were viewed by the 21-year-old girls. The dirt and poverty of Madrid appalled them, but they were fascinated by southern Spain.

Winter work in Bermuda helped finance the second leg of their trip. Miss Primeau held a switchboard job in a hotel and Miss Crozier worked in an office where four lawyer-employers considered five hours a day's work for the 16-member staff. They swam in the Caribbean on New Year's Day.

On March 1, Elizabeth left for England and Lucille joined her two months later. Their European tour included a week in Paris, on to Lourdes and Southern France, through Spain, to Tangiers and Gibraltar. They returned through Spain, spent some time on the French Riviera, visited Rome and Venice, Sweden, Holland and Belgium.

Empty Ladysmith House Razed by Mystery Fire

LADYSMITH—An empty house at Ladysmith, owned by an oil company, was completely destroyed by fire last night.

Firemen from the Ladysmith volunteer brigade found the fire had too strong a hold when they arrived about 9 p.m. and confined their efforts to keeping the fire from spreading.

The house was near Smelter Beach, on the Comox Logging and Railway Company's road. Logging company equipment stored near the house was threatened for a short time. Cause of the fire was not known last night. The house was partly insured. No estimate of the loss could be obtained.

The house, unoccupied for some time, was owned by the Vacuum Oil Co., of Vancouver.

Duncan to Sign Lease For Big Parking Lot

DUNCAN—Council last night agreed to sign a five-year lease with the Indian Department for the Duncan armory parking lot at a cost of $3,000 a year.

The contract specifies that sometime within the five years the city must level and blacktop the existing parking lot area.

"That doesn't include the mound," commented Mayor Jack Dobson, referring to a tree-covered hillock which the city has been asked to make into a park by a number of persons.

'One-Horse' Duncan Horseless

DUNCAN—This city "isn't even a one-horse town anymore," joked Mayor Jack Dobson last night while city council was approving an agreement with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

He made the remark after clerk Gordon Berry read from the contract that if a horse was picked up by the SPCA the pound fee would be $5.

NO HORSES

Mayor Dobson pointed out there are no horses within the city limits. Council approved the signing of the agreement after Ald. James Saunders reported the SPCA facilities at the pound on Skinner Road would be completed in two weeks.

The contract will go into effect Oct. 1, council decided. Minimum fee for any dog or cat picked up will be $7. Live-stock pound fees are higher.

Didn't Get Out of Duncan So Now He's Jail-Bound

DUNCAN—A Second World War veteran from Victoria, who didn't "get out of town" Wednesday as ordered by Magistrate A. C. Sutton, was "taken for a ride" yesterday by RCMP officers—to Oakalla.

William R. Bell was arrested Tuesday night for "being drunk. Magistrate Sutton let him off with the time spent in jail and told him to leave Duncan.

Bell appeared in court again yesterday on the same charge and asked that he be sent somewhere to get psychiatric help.

WHAT HAPPENED? "You promised to go back to where you belong. What happened?" asked the magistrate.

"I started to, but I had a pain in my head and I thought a couple of beers..." Bell explained.

Everything from Chess to Charm to Diving

Record numbers are enrolling daily in a widest-ever array of Victoria night school courses which run the gamut from driving and playing chess to skin diving and charm development.

An official of the adult education division of the Greater Victoria school board said yesterday upwards of 4,000 night school students are expected this year compared with 3,500 last year.

Enrollments are up 100 per cent over this time last year and will continue to be accepted up to the week of Oct. 5, officials stated.

More than 160 different courses are offered at tuition fees ranging from $4 for a seven-session series on personal financial planning and $3 for five lessons in book repairing to $20 for 10 lessons in skin diving and $40 for 20 sessions of are welding.

A mere $7 investment will bring you 10 lessons on how to invest the rest of your fortune and for $15 you can learn how to build your own home.

The sum of $12 will get you a course on public speaking or short story writing, or even 10 lessons of golf. You can learn ballroom dance-ing for $10, floral arrangement for $7, boat building for $15, aviation ground school for $12 and third year contract bridge for $16.

For $35 you can learn to drive a car and for $20 you can learn how to take the automatic transmission apart and put it together again.

If you have sufficient earlier education you can win a junior matriculation certificate and, if you haven't, you can get courses leading to matriculation.

Alan Batey, principal of night schools, said yesterday night school students should enroll as soon as possible in order to guarantee acceptance in any given class.

He warned that some classes may be filled before the courses open during the week of Oct. 5.

The courses, he pointed out, are self-supporting and operate without cost to the taxpayer.

A former day-school teacher, Mr. Batey said frequency of failures is lower at night school than anywhere else in the school system.

"People come to us with a real determination to learn, and many of them put their new-found knowledge to good use," he said. A high proportion of the students enroll so as to better their employment status, the principal said.

"But no matter why they come to us we are glad to have them."

A full list of available courses and tuition fees may be obtained from the Greater Victoria school board on request.

Small Capsules

Highly Lethal Blasting Caps Still Missing

Saanich police are more interested in recovering 25 tiny but highly lethal blasting caps stolen last weekend than they are in arresting the thief, a spokesman said last night.

Juvenile Officer Harry Adams said the caps, stolen in the Cadboro Bay area between last Friday and Sunday, are still missing.

He said the theft is still believed to have been the work of juveniles and added that questioning of six boys yesterday disclosed that the theft took place prior to last Sunday afternoon.

Some of the youths questioned said they were playing in the vicinity of the place from where the caps were stolen on Sunday and that they saw the opened container in which they had been stored.

Oak Bay police joined the hunt for the highly-explosive capsules yesterday when they checked on a report that a group of boys throwing rocks at a paper bag at a beach had told a bystander it was filled with "blasting caps."

But the youngsters could not be located when police reached the scene.

The Saanich juvenile officer said "naturally we wish the boys who took the caps would give themselves up . . . but failing that we would breathe a lot easier if they would just telephone us and tell us where to pick the stuff up."

The caps can be exploded by the mere heat of a person's hand and can bring death or serious injury in the process.

They are in the form of small metal containers with red and yellow insulated wires attached to them.

Students Going To Sea

The navy will take representative students and staff members from high schools and colleges on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland on a series of one-day cruises aboard warships of Pacific Command.

A naval spokesman said hundreds of invitations had been sent out to private and public high schools in Victoria, Nanaimo, Vancouver and Fraser Valley areas, as well as Victoria College and the University of B.C.

SATURDAY, OCT. 10

Victoria College and high schools in the Greater Victoria area will be accommodated on Saturday, Oct. 10, aboard Assiniboine, Margaree and Fraser.

Nanaimo students and teachers will take the cruise Sunday, Oct. 4, aboard Assiniboine, Fraser and St. Laurent.

In all, five destroyer escorts of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron will take part in the program of one-day cruises which start Sept. 26 and run to Oct. 10.

CAREER CHANCES

The cruises are designed to familiarize students and teachers with RCN ships, their functions and capabilities, officers and men. The program will also provide first-hand insight into career opportunities with the naval service.

Arrangements are being handled by Lieut. Albert A. Allen and Instructor Lieut. James M. Clark, both schools relations officers for British Columbia.

Mortgage Dance Planned

Volunteer fire departments of lower Vancouver Island are working together to stage a benefit dance Oct. 16 in Colwood community hall. Proceeds will go into a fund to retire the $4,600 mortgage on the home of the widow of a Langford fireman who died on duty July 25.

Tickets will be on sale next Thursday from volunteer firemen at Sooke, Colwood, Langford, View Royal, Central Saanich and Sidney.

Civil Defence War Role

Underground Wiring

Expensive Shock Faces Merchants

Merchants in downtown Victoria are going to get an awful shock, Ald. Elmer McEwen said yesterday, when they have to hook up to the underground wiring system now being built.

"I know what you're talking about," Mayor Percy Scurrell agreed. "I'll be up against an expenditure of $4,000 to $5,000 myself."

The underground system is expected to supersede the overhead wiring in about two years, and Ald. McEwen broached the subject of city and private expense when council gave approval to this year's program of duct installation by the B.C. Electric.

COST $150,000

Installing new light poles and other facilities, he said, would cost the city $150,000 or more, and "it's time we gave some thought to where the money's coming from."

Ald. Arthur Dowell suggested Ald. McEwen's utilities committee should study the question and report to council.

NOT AS AMBITIOUS

City Engineer James Garnett assured Ald. McEwen that this year's excavation work program was not as ambitious as last year's and that the work should be carried out with less disruption.

Last year, Ald. McEwen said, "No matter where you looked there was a hole, and a big one."

Time Not Ripe

City council yesterday said au revoir but not goodbye to the idea of a new city hall.

The aldermen unanimously rejected, with thanks, the proposal of Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. to build an eight-storey, $1,800,000 city hall, for lease and eventual purchase.

A LIVE ISSUE

But they agreed to keep a new city hall a live issue, with the aim of building one when Victoria can more easily afford it.

Mayor Percy Scurrell told council he had come to the conclusion that this was an inappropriate time to build a new city hall. Because of reassessment ordered by the province, and school costs, many taxpayers were having to pay increased taxes this year, and the money market was "very unfavorable at the moment."

MORE THAN $300,000

"But I do think that when the money market is easier we should consider building," he said. And in six months or a year there should be more than $300,000 in the city's land-sales fund, he noted, which could be used.

Ald. Arthur Dowell supported Ald. Geoffrey Edgell's motion to reject the Dominion Construction proposal, but called for construction of a new city hall soon.

WISHFUL THINKING

"To my way of thinking, it's just wishful thinking that interest rates are going to come down," he said. "Even if they do, building costs are going to go up. What we save in interest, we'll pay for in more building costs."

The time had come, he said, when Victoria had to revitalize "the whole business environment in the city, and nothing would do it more than a new city hall."

A new city hall would be "the finest shot in the arm Victoria ever had."

Ald. M. H. Mooney revived his earlier proposal, that the ratepayers be asked to approve the idea of paying slightly higher taxes for the next three or four years, the money being set aside with land-sales funds for a new city hall.

NOT BE WISE

"I think we all agree we do need a new city hall," said Mayor Scurrell. "I am very strong for keeping the matter alive, but just at the moment I don't think is the time to do it; we would not be wise to put it to the people in this election."

Ald. Dowell proposed, and council approved, the naming of a special committee to study thoroughly what should be done.

"The most important thing is to revitalize the whole downtown area," said Ald. Dowell. "Nothing has been done for years and years, and it's getting more derelict, and more derelict, all the time. Building a new city hall in another place would revitalize the whole city."

"I couldn't agree with you more," said Mayor Scurrell.

Fire Rescue Methods Shown

'Sleeping' Death For Little Girl Averted by Mother

A four-year-old Saanich girl who took what could have been a fatal dosage of sleeping pills late yesterday is scheduled to be released from St. Joseph's Hospital fully recovered later today.

Quick action by Mrs. Lena Abbott, 4095 Cedar Hill, probably saved the life of her daughter, Brenda, who accidentally swallowed seven capsules which her mother had obtained for herself only two days earlier.

FRIGHTENING

"You never know how terribly frightening a thing like this can be until it actually happens to you," she said last night after learning that Brenda was recovering.

"The pills were kept high in a kitchen cupboard and I had no idea Brenda could get up there," the relieved mother said.

"The only way I can figure it out is that she must have used the high chair."

Mrs. Abbott first became alarmed when she saw her daughter behaving in a peculiar manner.

"She started getting groggy and then she started falling down."

"I called a doctor right away and he told me to walk Brenda around."

"I guess there's always a few who can't resist the green grass on the other side," the man said. "The rest of us know—and the fellows at William Head know—that this was our chance to go straight and stay straight."

"There are several others here like myself. I know I speak for them and the fellows in William Head when I ask people to stop knocking that place and yelling for fences. They're doing a good job, the best way."

'Grad' Praises Open Prisons

A successful "graduate" of an open-type prison, similar to the institution at William Head, told The Daily Colonist yesterday he didn't like to hear public criticism of the place, its policies or its methods.

"If I hadn't been in an open prison like that," said the Victoria man who preferred to remain nameless, "I would have been back in again long ago."

"As it is, I've finished my parole and I'm home free. I'm starting up my own little business—and if all goes well, come spring you can bet I'll be going to the John Howard Society and asking them to get me someone from William Head to work with me."

None of this, he said, would have been possible if he'd been in a closed prison. He was, once—and when released soon found his way back.

This time he was given a chance at the open prison in Ontario. There were no fences, and the place was right by a highway. He had his work; he drew his tools in the morning, worked till noon, had lunch, went back to work till dinner. Often he didn't see a guard all day.

The guards, incidentally, all wore blazers, slacks, white shirts and tie—no institutional uniform.

While he was there, of about 200 inmates only 11 broke out—a percentage about equal to the escapes at William Head.

"I guess there's always a few who can't resist the green grass on the other side," the man said. "The rest of us know—and the fellows at William Head know—that this was our chance to go straight and stay straight."

"There are several others here like myself. I know I speak for them and the fellows in William Head when I ask people to stop knocking that place and yelling for fences. They're doing a good job, the best way."

Chevy Unveils Rear-Engined Small Corvair

DETROIT (AP)—Chevrolet officially joined the small-car battle Thursday with details on its new Corvair, first American car with the engine in the rear.

Ford unveiled its small Falcon a week ago. Still to come from the industry's big three is Chrysler's Valiant. It will be along in November. The Corvair will go on sale Oct. 2; the Falcon Oct. 9.

The Corvair has an air-cooled six-cylinder engine made mostly of aluminum and mounted in what up to now always has been the trunk compartment on American cars.

It will be built at first only in four-door sedan models. These will weigh 2,375 pounds. They will be 15 feet long, about 2½ feet shorter than the 1959 Chevrolet; four feet, three inches high and five feet, seven inches wide.

It will have about 90 horse power.

Like the other two new compact cars, the Corvair will have a "unitized" body—a one-piece unit rather than a body shell bolted to a frame. American Motors' Rambler also uses this type of body construction.

Ed Cole, Chevrolet's general manager, told a national press preview that the Corvair will get 25 to 40 per cent better gasoline mileage than the standard Chevrolet six-cylinder model.

He said the over-all weight distribution of 60 per cent in the rear and 40 per cent in the front—almost an exact reversal from front-engine cars—will give excellent traction in mud, snow or ice along with light-touch steering.

It Was 33 Years Ago!

School Opening Marks Big Day at St. Michael's

The 50th anniversary of St. Michael's School in Oak Bay will be marked Sept. 19, when founder K. C. Symons officially opens a new school building at 820 Victoria Avenue.

The original school building, at 2176 Windsor Road, was condemned last winter following a fire safety inspection. The new, $125,000 school includes seven classrooms, a library, offices and a gymnasium. The gymnasium is still under construction.

Money to construct the new school was donated or pledged between January and the middle of June. Site includes two acres of land, providing space for playing fields. Some 130 students are enrolled at the school for the 1959-60 school year.

With less than 12 hours to go before they are due to explain a proposed $300,000 water supply bylaw to Saanich residents, Central Saanich councillors still haven't finally decided what form it will take.

SUPPLY PLAN

A public meeting, to hear details of the scheme, has been set for 8 p.m. tonight in Mt. Newton High School.

The plan, as originally adopted by council, called for a $586,465 bylaw to provide the area with an adequate water supply.

This included $83,120 for the construction of a 500,000-gallon concrete reservoir near the Saanich experimental farm, and $503,345 for lateral water lines from a 12-inch water main which runs from Elk Lake to Patricia Bay.

Petitions from 52 residents on Mount Newton Crossroad, asking that their area be excluded from the grid plan, was heard by council yesterday.

P. S. Lomas told the council residents of the Mt. Newton Crossroad area have plenty of water at present and do not want the expense of participating immediately.

Reeve Brown said last night that consulting engineer Howard D. Dawson, who prepared the original plans for the new water system, would possibly present an entirely new grid plan to this morning's meeting.

FIRE DANGER

The original scheme included installation of 76 hydrants to lessen the fire danger.

The council intends at present to hold a public plebiscite on the water supply bylaw Sept. 26.

A petition from some 200

ratepayers last year sparked the project and Mr. Dawson, a former Saanich municipal engineer, was engaged to design a suitable system.

WATER TRUCKED

Many farms in the area are short of water in the summer and many householders truck water to their homes to fill their needs.

Central Saanich municipality has been offered the 12-inch water main for only $1 by the Department of Transport. The line was originally installed in 1943 to supply the airport at Patricia Bay when drilling failed to locate an adequate supply.

Condition of the sale is that the airport should continue to draw water from the main.

'BRING IDEAS FOR PEACE'

Khrushchev Speaks

War to Us Misery, Tears, Grief

By NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

(Copyright by Council on Foreign Relations, Inc., New York)
(Second of a Series)

One does not need to delve deeply into history to appreciate how important it is for mankind to insure peaceful co-existence. And here it may be said parenthetically that the Europeans might have benefited a great deal in their day if, instead of organizing senseless crusades that invariably ended in failure, they had established peaceful relations with the differently minded peoples of the Moslem East.

But let us turn to facts concerning the relatively recent past when the watershed between states no longer consisted of different religious creeds and customs, but of much deeper differences of principle relating to the choice of social systems.

Strangle the Infant

Its appearance was met with the disgruntled outcries of those who naively believed the capitalist system to be eternal and immutable. Some people even made an attempt to strangle the unwanted infant in the cradle.

Everybody knows how this ended: our people voted with their arms for Soviet power, and it came to stay. And even then, in 1920, V. I. Lenin, replying to the question of an American correspondent as to what basis there could be for peace between Soviet Russia and America, said:

All States Obligated

Apart from the commitment to non-aggression, it also presupposes an obligation on the part of all states to desist from violating each other's territorial integrity and sovereignty in any form and under any pretext whatsoever.

The principle of peaceful co-existence signifies a renunciation of interference in the internal affairs of other countries with the object of altering their system of government or mode of life or for any other motives.

The doctrine of peaceful co-existence also presupposes that political and economic relations between countries are to

Unlimited Market

The Soviet Union and the other Socialist countries, thanks to their Socialist system, have an unlimited home market, and for this reason they have no need to pursue an expansionist policy of conquest and an effort to subordinate other countries to their influence.

It is the people who determine the destinies of the Socialist states. The Socialist states are ruled by the working people themselves, the workers and peasants, the people who themselves create

Threat of War

No! Peaceful co-existence does not mean merely living side by side in the absence of war but with the constantly remaining threat of its breaking out in the future. Peaceful co-existence can and should develop into peaceful competition for the purpose of satisfying man's needs in the best possible way.

We say to the leaders of the capitalist states: Let us try out in practice whose system is better, let us compete with-out war.

This is much better than competing in who will produce more arms and who will smash whom. We stand and always will stand for such competition as will help to ease the well-

ists not touch us. We won't touch them." From its very inception the Soviet state proclaimed peaceful co-existence as the basic principle of its foreign policy. It was no accident that the very first state act of the Soviet power was the decree on peace, the decree on the cessation of bloody war.

What, then, is the policy of peaceful co-existence? In its simplest expression it signifies the repudiation of war as a means of solving controversial issues.

However, this does not cover the entire concept of peaceful co-existence.

be based upon complete equality of the parties concerned and on mutual benefit.

It is often said in the West that peaceful co-existence is nothing else than a tactical method of the Socialist states. There is not a grain of truth in such allegations.

Our desire for peace and peaceful co-existence is not conditioned by any time-serving or tactical considerations.

It springs from the very nature of Socialist society in which there are no classes or social groups interested in profiting by war or seizing and enslaving other peoples' territories.

Contrary to what certain propagandists hostile to us say, the co-existence of states with different social systems does not mean that they will only fence themselves off from each other by a high wall and undertake the mutual obligations not to throw stones over the wall or pour dirt upon each other.

The principle of peaceful co-existence does not mean merely living side by side in the absence of war but with the constantly remaining threat of its breaking out in the future. Peaceful co-existence can and should develop into peaceful competition for the purpose of satisfying man's needs in the best possible way.

We say to the leaders of the capitalist states: Let us try out in practice whose system is better, let us compete with-out war.

This is much better than competing in who will produce more arms and who will smash whom. We stand and always will stand for such competition as will help to ease the well-

Enjoying a dip in the family bathtub before lunch, Puffy the seal, found romping in the bathtub of a vacated apartment last week, prepares to make short work of the herring offered by 16-year-old Gudrun Bauersachs. ## 'Foolish to Fight Over a Mountain'

Strike End Near?

Stock Camps For Loggers

Food was reported being sent into northern logging camps yesterday by the coastal forest industry in anticipation that the 66-day-old woodworkers strike will be over next week.

Industry sources said skeleton crews could begin work by Monday if the strike is settled this weekend. Full operations would resume about Wednesday.

TWO-YEAR PACT

It appeared certain that the 27,000 striking members of the International Woodworkers of America would approve a proposal that they settle for a 20-cent wage increase over two years, with an additional 10 cents for tradesmen. Minimum pay now is $1.72 an hour.

There was still no official word whether the operators, represented by Forest Industrial Relations, would accept the proposal by government-appointed mediator Dr. John Deutsch. A statement is expected today.

Voting by Victoria's 1,500-strong IWA local and other coast locals winds up at noon today. Official tallies on the union vote are expected to be announced shortly afterwards.

Members of the big Vancouver and New Westminster union locals, who had been urged by their leaders to reject the settlement, instead voted in favor. The vote was 60.4 per cent in favor in Vancouver and 54 per cent in New Westminster.

STRIKE LOSS

The tie-up, longest in the coast lumber industry since the Second World War, is costing some $1,000,000 a day in lost production and wages.

In Nanaimo, members of sub-local 1-80 voted yesterday on the Deutsch report proposals. Results will be made known this morning.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—

Prime Minister Nehru told parliament Thursday that it would be foolish to go to war with Communist China "over this mountain or that, however beautiful they may be"—but he declared India's border integrity must be respected.

Nehru spoke on the heels of a new exchange of strongly worded notes between Beijing and New Delhi. Each side accused the other of aggression and demanded withdrawal of the other's forces.

Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon warned Beijing India's frontiers were sacred and stressed determination to "defend ourselves" if the Reds launched an aggression.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union called on India and China to settle their "misunderstandings" amicably. The Chinese note demanded India get out of "all areas that have been invaded," and warned that "any armed provocation will certainly meet a firm rebuff from Chinese frontier guards."

In reply, India said its troops will "prevent illegal intrusion by foreign forces into their territory," but indicated willingness to accept the Communist bid for "friendly negotiations" on the issue.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

President Eisenhower last night challenged Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to bring with him to Washington "constructive ideas and suggestions" that could provide the basis for easing world tensions.

He again urged Americans to receive Khrushchev with "courtesy and dignity" and expressed "profound hope that some real progress will be forthcoming" from his talks with the Soviet official.

He said no one should be "so bold as to predict such an outcome."

BETTER ATMOSPHERE

But he said that if "an improved atmosphere of mutual understanding and serious purpose" could be created, "it would be possible to attack, with renewed hope, the problems that divide us."

Warning that "the choice before world leaders is momentous," Eisenhower said that if Khrushchev "has constructive ideas and suggestions that could provide the basis for responsible negotiation... we would welcome the opportunity to study them with our allies."

He said Khrushchev's 13-day visit, which begins Tuesday, would be "a thousandfold worthwhile" if it gave him "some real appreciation" of the spirit and conscience of America.

AMERICA PRAYS

"I know that all America prays to the Almighty that this might come to pass," he said.

He said he asked Khrushchev to this country so that he might see "what America and Americans are like... and see and feel a great thriving nation living in real freedom."

He said he also wanted to give the Soviet leader "face to face, the basic convictions of our people on the major issues of the day, including West Berlin, and to hear from him directly his own views on those issues."

Noting that an east-west summit meeting might be an outgrowth of his talks with Khrushchev, Eisenhower again declared that before he would agree to such a conference Russia must give positive assurances that "our status and rights in Berlin" will be respected.

CLEAR INDICATION

He said there also "must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

In his 15-minute address, the president also reported at length on the results of his recent diplomatic mission to Europe. He said his "most memorable impression" was "that the people of Europe deeply like the people of America."

Crowds Mourn Le Chef

THREE RIVERS, Que. (UPI)—The late Maurice Duplessis, premier of Quebec, was buried yesterday in a small family plot overlooking the city which called him "Our Maurice."

SOLEMN REQUIEM

Duplessis' bronze coffin was lowered into a grave beside that of his father in St. Louis cemetery in the afternoon after a solemn requiem mass was said in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception by Msgr. Georges-Leon Pelletier, Bishop of Three Rivers.

Provincial police estimated that almost 70,000 mourners lined the sidewalks of the city, on the western bank of the St. Lawrence River midway between Quebec City and Montreal.

Early-to-Rise, Late-to-Bed Nikita's Fate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will follow an early-to-rise, late-to-bed schedule during his U.S. visit, it was disclosed yesterday.

The White House made public the anxiously-awaited details of Khrushchev's visit. Included was a white tie dinner at the White House, a farmhouse luncheon and a tour of a movie lot.

More conventional highlights of the first nine days of his 13-day tour, which begins next Tuesday, were visits to an IBM plant, an agricultural research station and dinners with union leaders, finance chiefs and political and civic figures.

TRIP TO CONGRESS

Notably missing was any mention of a trip to Congress—still in the throes of adjournment.

Also noted was the fact that the schedule specified white tie for the White House dinner honoring Khrushchev. Khrushchev's dinner for the president at the Soviet embassy the following night will feature "optional" dress.

A Soviet embassy spokesman said he did not know whether Khrushchev would wear white tie and tails to the White House. While ambassador Mikhail Menshikov has done so, one report was that Khrushchev has never donned such fancy garb.

PRIVATE CITIZENS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, former New York Gov. Averill Harriman and corn farmer Roswell Garst of Coon Rapids, Iowa, were the only private citizens scheduled to entertain the Russian leader in their own homes.

The agenda for only the first nine days started with Khrushchev's arrival at Andrews air force base here at 11:30 a.m. EDT, and ended with his arrival at Pittsburgh at 11 p.m. EDT, Wednesday, Sept. 23.

The rest of the schedule, to include private Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at the president's heavily-guarded Camp David retreat in Maryland's nearby Catoctin mountains, will be made public later.

MOTORCADE

After being greeted by President Eisenhower, Khrushchev and his wife and the president will lead a motorcade from the airport to the president's guest house, where the Khrushchevs will stay.

The next item is a private Eisenhower-Khrushchev luncheon at the president's guest house. That will be followed by a 3:30 p.m. Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference at the White House and the 8 p.m. White House dinner.

Paul Sauve Named Quebec's Premier

QUEBEC (CP)—Paul Sauve, 52-year-old youth and welfare minister under the late Premier Duplessis, on Thursday night became premier of Quebec.

Lieutenant-Governor One-sime Gagnon called Mr. Sauve and said: "I have the honor to ask you if you will form a new government."

LIST TODAY

Mr. Sauve replied: "I beg the honor to consider this overnight and I will have a list of ministers ready, by 9:45 or 10 a.m. tomorrow."

Mr. Sauve takes over the post left vacant last Monday by Maurice Duplessis, who died of a cerebral hemorrhage. Swearing-in likely will be today but it is only a formality.

Mr. Sauve's selection fol-

CHOICE MADE

First the members of the former cabinet grouped to make their choice, drawing up a petition asking the lieutenant-governor to call on Mr. Sauve.

Then, the former ministers took it to members of the Union Nationale party in caucus. They asked that the party members add their support to the petition in the interest of party harmony.

LOUD APPLAUSE

Minutes after the petition went into the locked chamber, loud applause was heard. Lieutenant-Governor Gagnon made his brief call and then the ceremonies were over.
